Japanese Flee in All Directions as Chinese Press On

Enemy Casualties More Than 1,000 In Mopping Up at Yangtze Port

CHUNGKING, June 7 (AP)—Allied planes lashed out at the Japanese all along the Upper Yangtze battlefront Sunday in support of heartened Chinese troops who continued to hurl the enemy back in one of his biggest defeats in China.

The Chinese High Command said more than 1,000 Japanese, fleeing in all directions from Ituj, Yangtze port eighteen miles below Ichang, were killed or wounded Sunday in a mopping-up operation at that place, and that a number of strategic points were seized in the area south of the Yangtze between Ichang and Shasi, seventy miles to the southeast.

The Chinese continued to thrust toward the river all along the line in Southern Hupeh and Northern Hunan Provinces.

One advance was reported to be carrying forward toward Hwaiung, Japanese stronghold north of Tungting Lake

WOULD GREATLY RELIEVE THREAT

The fall of Ituj would greatly relieve the already diminished threat to Chinese rice bowl.

The Chinese Central News Agency said the American air force covered many key Japanese positions around the town with explosives Saturday.

United States fighters swept the seventy-mile stretch of the Yangtze between Ichang and Shasi on Saturday, making it safe for Japanese troops retreating in junks and other small craft.

Medium bombers and fighters scored huge runways and revetments in an attack on Paihsi, a Japanese air force headquarters, 140 miles above Ichang, and Liangshan, a big enemy airdrome at Shasi, destroying one, a truck and an operations shack.

The Allied planes smashed more than fifteen trucks and shot up barracks and shelters in a surprise attack on a motor pool at Yangkang, enemy stronghold thirty-five miles northeast of Ichang, dive-bombed a bridge near Puriji, fifty miles northeast of Yochow, and destroyed two locomotives between Puchi and Yochow.

Push Back Nazi Drive In Russia

Feeler Thrusts in Three Areas Repulsed

LONDON June 8 - (Tuesday) (CP) —Driving German feeler thrusts into Soviet lines were smashed back Monday on three main sectors, the Russians reported early today, but the main action on the fighting front still appeared to be in the air with Red Army and German airmen trading especially heavy blows Sunday night.

Soviet bombers smashed at the Nazi-held railway junction of Unecha in the Orel district, pounding ammunition, fuel and arms dumps and concentrations of enemy troops moving troops up to the front, a Moscow broadcast said.

Many fires broke out and heavy explosions were observed, said the broadcast, reporting on the Associated Press. It reported only one Russian plane lost.

TWELVE GERMAN PLANES SHOT DOWN

The radio said twelve German planes were shot down in a force of about 100 that struck at Gorki, industrial centre on the Volga about 250 miles east of Moscow.

The Germans said the raid was the third successive night attack on Gorki and claimed that their planes set fuses fires with 800 tons of explosives and 100,000 incendiaries. The Russians said some fell in residential areas, causing casualties and fatalities, while the Germans reported widespread damage to industrial activities.

Repulse of German scouting raids in force on the western front, in Northern Africa's region on the Donets front, and before Rostov-on-Don was reported in the Russian Monday night communique. Preceded by last quiet radio monitor.

THREE HUNDRED NAZIS KILLED

Three hundred Germans were killed in the night on the western front, the bulletin said, and an enemy scouting raid was beaten off. The German force, a company of

Four Great Destroyers, Gifts From Britain, Now In Service for Dominion

Ottawa, Kootenay, Gatineau and Saskatchewan All Have Splendid Records—Better Equipped

OTTAWA, June 7 (CP)—Naval service headquarters announced tonight that the four powerful destroyers, recently acquired by Canada as a gift from the British Government, already are on convoy duty in the North Atlantic.

The destroyers have been renamed the Ottawa, the Kootenay, the Gatineau and the Saskatchewan. Formerly they were the Griffin, the Decoy, the Express and the Portune.

Naval headquarters said their records could be traced from March in Northern Norway to Singapore. They are better equipped for fighting now than they have ever been, for they have just emerged from refits with the latest war habiliments.

The destroyers have four places beside Canada's other River-Class destroyer, the Assiniboine: the Skeena, the Restigouche, and the St Laurent.

Canadian officers have been appointed to command the Ottawa and the Kootenay.

Cmdr. Hugh P Pullen R C N of Oakville, Ont. is captain of the Ottawa, and Lieut.-Cmdr. Kenneth L. Dyer R C N of Grand Pre, N.S., is captain of the Kootenay.

Pending appointment of Canadian naval officers to the Gatineau and the Saskatchewan, these ships still will be officered by British Navy men temporarily in command. They are Lieut.-Cmdr. Burnett, R.N. and Lieut.-Cmdr. R. D. Williams R.N., respectively.

BROTHER WAS ON ORIGINAL OTTAWA

Cmdr. Pullen's brother Lieut. T. G. Pullen, R.N., was first lieutenant of the original Ottawa when she was torpedoed. First lieutenant of the new Ottawa is Lieut. H. Roberts, R.C.N. of Ottawa.

Griffin, Decoy and Portune action was at the Battle of Matapan in March, 1941, when they helped polish off the Italian warships.

Later in 1941 Griffin ranged in the pompom-filled skies of Crete during the invasion of that country, and Decoy helped to convoy Aug. 1942, and her tonnage is 1,335.

The Kootenay formerly the Decoy, came into by bombs and four time shaken up by near misses in the Mediterranean.

GENERAL MARSHALL BACK

WASHINGTON June 7 (AP)—The United States War Department tonight announced the return from overseas of General George C. Marshall, Army Chief of Staff. No details were given, but Marshall was reported to have accompanied Prime Minister Churchill to North Africa for a review of plans to carry the war to the European continent.

From Europe Day by Day

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

THE TIMES, London, Analyzes and Comments on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Reprinted, this is Section C)

LONDON, June 7.—Premier Churchill's return to his place of leadership, says The Times editorially, finds the United Kingdom keyed up to the highest pitch of expectation. He brings with him assurances that the United Nations are able to destroy Hitlerism in Europe and to give aid to China for the more complete overthrow of Japanese usurpation in Asia.

As for priority between the two halves of the war, the answer to those in the United States who, like our dealing with Japan first, is that the Allies are now making ready to prosecute the war simultaneously. Full detailed plans have been made for that purpose.

In North Africa Premier Churchill made further visits to the Mediterranean situation, and the next chapter there will be written in action.

The Battle of Europe has already begun with the greatest aerial bombardments in history, leading to the biggest arrivals in the German Reich in ruins and silencing the defiance that guard approaches to Italy. Thousands Europe millions of men speculate on the hour of invasion, which is apparently a matter of days, taken as a certainty in Germany.

Such an assumption, warns The Times, can be regarded only as the most dangerous misleading of military history, and it will be defended by desperate and well-understood men. Whatever flaunted threats in Germany, or among Germany's vassals, it would be unwise to count upon any triumph except that which Britain and Russia, with their allies, can win.

The diplomatic correspondent of The Times reviewing the Premier's Foreign Secretary's recent conference in which he participated were a hotly preparatory and the widest possible scope. This includes the forces of the Allies both in the west and in Russia, already ready for the task for which preparations were made at Casablanca. The Axis, said it, is a long and formidable task unparalleled in warfare, that of assembling armies and an enemy in command of the greater part of the continent.

Further indication of the scope of the Allies' plans is seen in the German High Command's hesitation to commit their vital forces on the Russian front to any offensive. The Germans fear to send reserve troops to the eastern front as they will be wanted elsewhere.

Foreign Secretary Eden's visit to North Africa has given the Premier the fullest information available in London, and with the final organization of neutral countries to the south of Germany, Germany's Germany wants an undisturbed year in which to complete her defences, and the Allied aim will be a continuous offensive.

Turkey, according to opinion established via Premier contains the Axis in the Balkans, May 30 wrote: "brilliant prospects that now lie before us."

The great air war over Central Russian salients continues unabated saying The Times. Moscow correspondent Red Air Force has struck again at Bryansk and Karachev, and Orel, Germans have established on Kursk. The Russians have forced the Germans to roll up their flanks, and are now in a position to fill gaps as great have been likely losses.

French Name New Cabinet

ALGIERS June 7 (AP)—The French Committee of National Liberation tonight announced formation of a Cabinet of eleven members to act as the governing agency until a provisional government is established based upon liberation of the home country.

The announcement came at the end of a day of rumors and, coming in three separate communiques was vague in some respects. It also spoke of the formation of a war council "to assure general control of the war."

Membership of the war committee was not announced nor was its rule defined.

Generals Henri Giraud and Dr. Charles de Gaulle are identified as joint for portfolios, indicating there was no agreement yet on this point.

It was generally expected, however that Giraud would continue as Commander-in-Chief of the French Army.

The important Cabinet posts will be filled with men of Moderate Left War, Navy and Air—which might be grouped as the Republican as has been done before in France.

OTTAWA, June 7 (CP)—A spokesman for the Chinese Legation said today Mme Chiang Kai Shek, wife of the Chinese generalissimo, will arrive in Ottawa for a three-day visit June 15. It is believed her only Canadian address will be the one she will deliver to a joint meeting of the House of Commons and Senate.

Italy and Her Islands Under Almost Constant Air Attacks As Submarines Hit Shipping

Axis Aerial Opposition Torn Apart by Relentless Assault

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 7 (AP)—Tearing apart the Axis air opposition at the rate of nineteen enemy planes destroyed to one Allied craft lost, squadrons of Allied bombers and fighter bombers held the Italian islands and Italy herself under almost unbroken attack over the week-end.

Allied planes sweeping out from North Africa and the Middle East threw their greatest raids against the long-punished island of Pantelleria, but Sicily and the mainland supply ports of Messina, San Giovanni and Reggio Calabria were hard hit as well.

The Allies threw in virtually every sort of plane in the great force built up along the shores of Africa.

They again met considerable German fighter strength, particularly over Pantelleria, but they downed an aggregate of sixteen fighters, two bombers and one transport at the cost of a single Allied plane lost over Pantelleria

BIGGEST RAID BY FIFTY BOMBERS

The biggest single blow dealt the enemy in fighter strength was struck by fifty bombers of the Middle East Command, which pounded Messina, Reggio Calabria and San Giovanni. They blew out of the sky at least eight Axis planes and probably three more probably three more of an enemy force of about thirty. Two of the fifty American raiders was lost.

Pantelleria was hit first by heavy bombers and then by medium and fighter bombers, eight enemy fighters being shot down.

At Messina, the railroad yards were sprayed with bombs, and explosions were left also in the vicinity of the power station, naval barracks and oil tanks. Bombers were joined up Reggio Calabria e harbor area, the ferry pier and at San Giovanni was squarely hit.

The Italians asserted that five Allied planes were brought down in the Messina-Strait raids, that seven were destroyed over Pantelleria and three additional Allied planes were knocked down in other operations. The sinking of an Allied merchantman by Italian naval action also was claimed.

Rawson Gives Way To General Ramirez

BUENOS AIRES, June 7 (CP)—Gen. Pedro Ramirez became the new President of Argentina in a provisional Government today, succeeding Gen. Arturo Rawson, who resigned unexpectedly after failing to reach an agreement on his constitution of a new Cabinet.

Rawson's resignation came only a few hours before he was to have been sworn in as President in a mid-day ceremony in succession to Ramon S. Castillo, ousted in a coup d'etat Friday.

Rawson's action was followed by the resignation of Gen. Edelmiro Farrell, Minister of Munitions, and Admiral Benito Sueyro, Minister of Marine, as Foreign Minister and Justice and Public Instruction.

Interviewed sources said they were told that the Cabinet under Gen Ramirez now was free from extreme right-wing nationalists. As for the uncertainty concerning Argentina's foreign policy, observers said the suspense of watchful waiting must be prolonged until the membership of the new Cabinet and its political leanings are announced officially.

The Buenos Aires official radio station listed the full Ramirez Cabinet as follows: Gen. Alberto Ochoa, Interior; Vice-Admiral Segundo Sueyro, Foreign Affairs; Jose Santa Marina, Finance; Col. Helvio Anaya, Justice and Public Instruction; Gen. Juan Pistarini, Minister of War; Admiral Ismael Galindez, Public Works; Rear-Admiral Benito Sueyro, Navy, and Gen. Eleponio Parera, Agriculture.

New Hope Springs From Food Conference, Roosevelt Says

WASHINGTON June 7 (AP)—President Roosevelt declared today that the International Food Conference which has just ended has brought to the world a new hope for attaining permanent peace and security.

The President addressed the delegates of forty-four nations in the White House East Room. He said in part:

"The United Nations," Mr. Roosevelt said, "are united in the war effort and we must act unitedly and effectively as they are united on the problems of the world-wide war against starvation.

"And we are winning by action and unity."

Describing the conference which was held at Hot Springs Va. as unmaking the President said that never before had conferees represented more than 80 per cent of the world's people joined together to see what could be done about feeding all human beings so they should be fed.

He added:

"Increased food production must be accompanied by increased distribution, and increased distribution by increased purchasing power. There must be measures for dealing with trade barriers, international exchanges and international investment. The better use of materials to human resources must be assured to prevent unemployment.

"Many of these questions lie outside the scope of the work you have undertaken but their solution must be the task essential to the success. They require, and shall receive, our united attention."

Press: This apparent reference to additional international parleys to come, the President went on to say that world world agricultural programme would depend upon world political security while that security in turn would be strengthened greatly should each country be assured of the food it needs.

Although official credit for destruction of the submarine Console Generale Liuzzi, some twenty minutes after Italy entered the war, went to the British destroyer Dainty, Decoy shared in the action and some members of her crew claim that she is entitled to the credit.

RECALLED FROM CHINA FOR ACTION

Decoy was recalled from China in 1938 to enter the war, sailing straight to the Mediterranean. She saw service at Crete, Malta and Tobruk.

She was involved in the one and only air action by the Japanese against Colombo. Then she joined the covering force in the attack on Madagascar.

She is completely manned by young Canadian officers and men.

Her captain, Lieut.-Cmdr. Dyer, has already distinguished himself as winner of the D.S.O. for a successful anti-submarine action while in command of H.M.C.S. Skeena.

The Express was the last destroyer to leave Dunkerque.

She once lost her stern in an explosion and was towed safely back to port. She escorted the battleship Prince of Wales and the battle cruiser Repulse to Singapore and when Repulse was sinking under a rain of bombs the captain of Express took his ship alongside the battleship and rescued many of the crew.

WELL KNOWN TO THOUSANDS IN ARMY

H.M.S. Fortune, now H.M.C.S. Saskatchewan, is already well known to thousands of Canadian Army men, for she accompanied the First and Third Divisions in convoy from mid-Atlantic, when they first came to the United Kingdom. Her tonnage is 1,350 and she carried a normal complement of 150 officers and men.

Although she has had near misses and has been under heavy attack from enemy dive bombers, she has never had a major mechanical breakdown.

In May, 1942, she took part in the capture of Diego Suarez. In June she was back on the Malta convoy.

She took part in the second and third landings at Madagascar. Then she was sent to engage in anti-submarine work between Durban and Capetown.

Safety First Not Appearance Rule for Dress

DETROIT, June 7 (AP)—Office girls at the Ford Motor Company's Highland Park plant didn't like what slacks did to their silhouettes so they wore dresses to work today.

The company didn't go for the dress, so the girls sat idly in front of their typewriters.

[illegible] man are dangerous; they might become entangled in machinery when the girls go out into the part of the factory where machines are located. So the company gave the girls no work to do, and the young ladies wouldn't go home.

Ben Garrison, president of the local U.A.W.-C.I.O. Union, pleaded the girls' case. "We'll take the matter up with the company and make a fight for their jobs and the emancipation of between 300 and 400 other girls working in the offices," he said.

There was some dispute as to the number of girls who arrived in crisp Summer prints. The company spokesman said twenty-nine, the union said fifty-seven. The company said they weren't fired but only told to go home and put on some "decent" clothes.

According to the Ford spokesman a general rule exists that says all women workers must wear slacks. The union denied knowledge of any such agreement.

Ramirez' first official announcement after succeeding Rawson was a communique issued tonight, saying that the internal situation of Argentina was "absolutely normal" and that the spreading of false reports tending to cause confusion would be considered treason.

Vice-Admiral Storni, reported to be the new Foreign Minister and who presumably will have much to say about Argentina's relations with the Axis and the United Nations, has been in retirement for some time and never was known to have joined any political group.

NEGROES IN JAIL

COLLINS, Miss., June 7 (AP)—Acting Sheriff W. J. Warren said today ten negro soldiers are in jail and two others are in hospital following a disturbance near here Sunday when a highway patrolman stopped a truck carrying the negroes. The sheriff said several ineffectual shots were fired at a highway patrolman. One of the negroes is suffering from a bullet wound.

Three Canadian Spitfires Lost

LONDON, June 7 (CP)—The Royal Canadian Air Force tonight announced the loss of three of its Spitfire fighters in offensive forays against locomotives in Brittany during the day but reported that the pilot of one of the aircraft was safe. One R.A.F. aircraft was lost in the same operation.

Scattered raiding by the enemy last night caused a brief alert in London and resulted in minor damage and a few casualties. One enemy plane was shot down.

Second Fire in Ocean Freighter

HALIFAX, June 7 (CP)—Fire broke out today aboard an ocean freighter raised a few months ago from the bottom of Halifax harbor after she had sunk while afire about two years ago.

A fireboat brought the new blaze under control in about a half hour after it was discovered. Cause of the fire was not known immediately.

The vessel was swept by flames in February, 1942, as she lay at a pier here. The weight of water poured into her hull to quench the flames caused her to roll over and sink.

The freighter was raised last January and was undergoing repairs when the new fire started.

WILL SPEAK TONIGHT

Tom Jolls will address a public meeting of the Victoria British-Israel Association at 8 o'clock tonight in the lower hall, First Baptist Church, on "The Challenge of the Great Pyramid."

Radar, Secret British Weapon, Played Part in Defeat of Nazi Planes

"Magic Eye" Detects Solid Objects Out of Sight or in Dark, Helps Protect Convoys

By R. V. JONES

MIAMI, Fla., June 7 (AP).—Radar, one of the truly secret weapons of this war, has emerged from its cocoon of mystery after doing enormous damage to the Axis. Nearly a year ago I saw it used by a warship to shepherd a straggler back into a convoy, to sweep the seas to make certain no submarine was creeping near for attack, to locate airplanes and landmarks in darkness, and to keep a magic eye on ships out of sight over the horizon.

The Nazi air force was itself defeated in part because of Radar.

With this instrument Britain's defenders looked directly into Germany and occupied Europe "saw the enemy planes shortly after they rose from the ground."

As the aerial fleets approached Britain the outnumbered R.A.F. was at the right place at the right time to meet the German attacks.

"Why do you think the Italian fleet stayed in hiding?" I was asked. "Partly it was because there was some strange thing its officers couldn't figure out. That strange thing was Radar. They could never leave port without the British navy knowing it and doing something about it."

PROVES WORTH IN NAVAL BATTLE

The Battle of Cape Matapan could be named, I was told, the first great naval battle of Radar. A British fleet sailed up to an Italian fleet in darkness. Each British ship used Radar equipment to select a target. The Italians had no idea there was a British vessel within hundreds of miles.

The British ships turned searchlights on the astounded enemy, blasted ship after ship to the bottom of the Mediterranean, then withdrew. Hours later, with every British vessel miles away, the Italians still afloat fired salvos in complete confusion.

I learned that Radar transmits waves which keep going if uninterrupted but rebound if they strike some solid object, even the periscope of a submarine. A receiving set catches the returning waves and instantly computes the direction and distance of the object.

Jurist States Palestine Suited As Jewish Home

Although Palestine is smaller than Vancouver Island, there is ample room there for the two or three million Jews who will be left in Europe after the war, Judge Bernard A. Rosenblatt, prominent Zionist leader, told members of the Canadian Club at a luncheon in the Empress Hotel yesterday.

"The economic absorptive capacity of that little country is shown by the growth in population and its remarkable transformation in the last twenty years," he declared.

Judge Rosenblatt, who is an outstanding jurist and member of the New York bar, has lived in Palestine and founded a colony there, and has held important positions in the Zionist organization of America. He made his first trip to Palestine in 1919, and the last in 1939.

After the last war Palestine took more Jewish refugees than all the rest of the world put together, he said. "The country has been transformed from a struggling poverty-stricken settlement of 52,000 old Jews to a progressive community of 580,000 Jews. It is our task to keep the doors of Palestine open for the remnant of Jews left when Hitler finishes in Europe."

FRICTION IS EXAGGERATED

The friction in Palestine between Arabs and Jews, while it is definitely a problem, is greatly exaggerated and augmented by the Fascists, according to the speaker. There are approximately 900,000 Arabs to the 600,000 Jews living in Palestine.

In explaining the justice of the Jewish claim, Judge Rosenblatt said the Arab possessions in the world, including the exclusive Arab states of Iraq and Syria and the tip of North Africa, comprise 300,000 square miles for a population of 7,000,000. The Jews have merely a legal right to live in and develop about 10,000 square miles.

While the old Arabs may not like the higher standard of living the Jews bring in, their rights are guarded," he said, "and they are not disturbed."

That the Jews deserve a country in which "they can enter as a right and not a mere suffrance" is shown by the industrial progress the country has made, particularly in the war effort, he stated.

Over 30,000 Jewish boys are in the British Army, most of them under General Montgomery, and the country itself has become "the repair shop of the Eighth Army." The development of the potash industry from the Dead Sea was cited by the speaker as evidence of the ability of the little country to support a large population at a high standard of living.

Judge Rosenblatt was introduced by J. B. Clearihue and thanked by Magistrate H. C. Hall.

Saws Reported Taken

E. Wood, 1282 Rosalie Road, informed the police of the loss of four circular saws which he believes were stolen from a garage at 2103 Townsend Road. He discovered the loss last night. The saws of Simonds manufacture are valuable because of the difficulty of replacement. Two of the saws are about twenty-six inches in diameter and two approximately twenty-nine inches.

Escapes France

GENERAL ALPHONSE GEORGES

Western front commander of French armies before the fall of France recently escaped from that country and arrived in Algiers. He has been named one of the seven-man executive committee set up in Algiers, North Africa, under the joint presidency of General Charles de Gaulle and General Henri Giraud to govern liberated Frenchmen and French territory until France is freed.

Many Questions Before House; Approves Air Force Measure

OTTAWA, June 7 (CP).—The House of Commons tonight gave approval to the $1,120,000,000 Air Department estimate for the fiscal year 1943-44.

The estimate is part of the total war appropriation of $3,890,000,000 for the fiscal year.

The House then turned to examination of the Naval Department estimates with Navy Minister Macdonald answering questions.

Air Minister Power said the estimated cost of recruiting for 1943-44 was $1,980,000 against $780,000 in 1942-43.

G. R. Boucher (Prog. Con., Carleton) asked the reason for the increase and Major Power said a year ago it was easy to get air crew but now it was necessary to look for recruits.

Recruiting methods would include newspaper advertisements, radio programmes and other methods which would stimulate interest in the air force.

Major Power and his Parliamentary assistant, Hon. Cyrus MacMillan (Lib., Queens), answered a long series of questions about R.C.A.F. activities.

They revealed:

The R.C.A.F. bought some gliders but they were not quite satisfactory. Six helicopters have been purchased from a United States firm but the date of delivery was uncertain. The R.C.A.F. has quite a few good transport planes which could be used for training airborne troops but they are not now being used for that purpose.

Negotiations are proceeding between the army and the air force to increase the flow of men desiring air crew training from the army and also to arrange for enlistments into the air crew training in the R.C.A.F.

Air force transportation and freight charges in the past fiscal year were paid out as follows: $9,014,390 to the Canadian National Railways and $7,362,568 to the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The medical category for ground crew has been lowered to A4B. Air Minister Power said this category included those "fit for passenger flying and full ground duties in Canada only."

The occupational histories of 68,000 Canadian airmen have been checked and this work still is in progress. Of the 68,000, some 70 per cent are under twenty-seven, and 6,800 have university degrees or were undergraduates when they enlisted. About 54,000 had junior matriculation or better. The rehabilitation programme would permit a man with a B.A. degree to go on to further studies if he wished and the Government would pay to give him a chance to complete his education.

A.R.P. Activities

Saanich A.R.P. personnel of all districts will attend a lecture to be given at Victoria High School auditorium tomorrow at 8 p.m. by Duncan McRoberts, Irish Presbyterian missionary, who spent four and a half years on Chinese war fronts and who witnessed 100 bombing raids by the Japanese.

To Use High School As Hostel for Girls In Agricultural Work

Arrangements for the use of Mount Newton High School in the heart of the Saanich berry growing country as a hostel for forty young girls working on the farms have been announced by the Saanich School Board. It is expected the school will be operated as a hostel from the time school closes until classes resume in the Fall.

The Saanich School Board has agreed that the downstairs section of the building be used and will stipulate that the school be in its present condition when taken over in September.

According to the Dominion-Provincial Farm Labor Committee and Dr. J. L. Gayton, Saanich medical health officer, it is by far the most suitable building in the area.

Accommodation will be provided for forty girls of from fifteen to teen years of age. Meals will be provided and a matron will be in charge at all times to exercise supervision over the girls.

The school board will not make a profit on the transaction, it was reported. The committee, however, will be required to provide its own fuel for the building.

NOTICE TO MARINERS

Mariners are advised that on or about the 8th instant the Sand Heads Lightship off the mouth of the Fraser River, Strait of Georgia, B.C., will be removed from her station for overhaul.

During the absence of the lightship this position will be marked by a gas and whistling buoy showing a flashing white light.

DEFENCES OF EUROPE

The military correspondent of The Times, London, has been discussing an offensive by the United Nations against continental Europe. The problems to be overcome are great, and particularly so on the coastline of Holland, Belgium and France, and on Sicily, too, where, he says, the strength of the defences may approach those of the Pas de Calais itself. These defences, he says, "include minefields—in the water and on beaches—heavily protected coast-defence artillery, barbed wire, anti-tank obstacles, road blocks, machine-gun casemates and entrenchments." He believes, however, that the Germans have "greatly exaggerated" what they claim is the heavy, continuous fortifications all along the coastline they have to defend. He admits that they are "immensely strong" at the most vulnerable and accessible points, but at others they are very much less so. Over long stretches such defences hardly exist at all.

Whatever there are in the way of coast defences constitute, the correspondent says, the outer enceinte. As well there is an "inner fortress" with defences "provided by the 'West Wall,' the Rhine and Black Forest, the Alps, the Dinaric Alps, the Balkans, the Carpathians, and several systems of artificial fortifications behind the Russian front." Then he says: "Were Germany to be driven inside this keep she would still not lack the means to maintain the struggle. Yet, just as seizure of some of the outworks afforded the attacker of one of the old fortresses a great material as well as moral advantage, so a strong footing in Western France, or Italy or Greece, or better still in two of them, would intensify the threat to the inner fortress and afford opportunity for surprise assaults upon it."

The correspondent admits that "the biggest problem of all in invasion is that of shipping." He recalls that 2,000,000 tons of shipping were used in the expedition to French North Africa, or the equivalent of 500 ships of 4,000 tons each. He expects that there will be, perhaps, very heavy losses in shipping. The convoy escorts will have to be heavy and complete, but if the distance to be traveled is short that will prove a favorable factor. Then there is the air protection for the ships, for the landings and for subsequent operations, including its continuance for ports and lines of communication. This means that any landing point chosen for invasion must be chosen so that it can be covered by fighter aircraft. It is known that German fighter strength is still, as the correspondent says, "exceedingly formidable in the West as well as in the Mediterranean." As well the enemy has bomber strength, although for some time past he has been using it but little against the United Kingdom. The assumption is that he is saving it as a precaution against "just such Allied combined operations as have been envisaged," his hope being "to damage the bridgehead, smash the port facilities and shipping making use of them, and generally cripple the power of the expedition, especially during the crucial period when it is recovering its wind after the exertions of a forced landing." In concluding his observations on the subject the military correspondent quoted says:

"An attempt has been made to set out some of the factors which must govern the decision to invade the Continent. It cannot be said that one objective is preferable to another because that depends upon the resources and dispositions on either side, though it can be said that, if resources were overwhelmingly in Allied favor, Northern France would provide the best landing places. Looking at the problem through the enemy's eyes, the strategic reserve is vital. Suppose, for the sake of argument, that this consists of forty-five divisions, the whole situation would be altered if the enemy were enabled to withdraw fifteen or twenty more divisions from the Russian front. It might then be that the Allies would have to proceed by slow steps, securing first of all, say, a bridgehead in Southern Italy. The same applies to air strength. ... The problem is by no means insoluble. Defence of such an area as the enemy holds at present is barely within his means now, and in the long run may prove beyond them."

CANADA'S AIRWAY

An unbroken line of 3,911 miles from sea to sea now marks the route of Canada's national airway, officially dedicated this week by the arrival of the first through machines to the new western terminus at Patricia Bay. Victoria takes both interest and pride in the event, knowing what air is now and also what it may become in the happier days of peace.

Canada's airway is not only among the longest but also one of the most necessary in the world. This is a land of flying distances. Stage by stage and through the vision of men who were far-seeing, the ground appurtenances of flight have been installed. The route is being flown now by night and by day, and on a safe and dependable basis. Now is the time for all men to enlarge their views, and keep the airways out of politics. In the years to come airways will be Canada's backbone in a closely-netted world.

Greetings came to Victoria and Vancouver Island, yesterday from main airports along that route. The farthest east came from St. John's, Newfoundland, which is the jumping off place for Great Britain. There were greetings too, from Sydney, Halifax, Moncton, Montreal, Toronto, London (Ont.), Windsor, North Bay, Kapuskasing, Armstrong, Winnipeg, Regina, Lethbridge and Vancouver, all only a matter of a very few hours now one from the other. Thus the new geography of Canada is being molded, with opportunities for the future that few may fully conceive.

Already one material advantage has accrued to this community from the completion of the link. Air mail originating or for delivery here now receives the fastest clearance we have ever known. In effect, Victoria today is one day nearer to Ottawa. There will, of course, be many other advantages, and these will unfold as time goes on. Vancouver Island, with 150,000 people—87,000 of whom live in the southern area—now takes its place on the air map of Canada, and on the air map of the world. We bring to that bargain an air-conscious population, and the most equable climate in the Dominion. So the benefits should be mutual. To the Trans-Canada Air Lines, pioneering now as in 1937, this community will extend its most cordial felicitations and goodwill.

ACCORDING TO HANSARD

[illegible] to the extent of wasting the country's time and money, and reaching no conclusion of any definite value. No doubt members, and even ministers, must exercise their wits, but that need not mean that their attempts at persiflage should be charged with vapid utterances. Here is how Hansard records a discussion out of which nothing eventuated.

Mr. Adamson: It has been found that a number of soldiers returning from overseas land on this side without any money in their pockets. They are given a grant, or pay, or an advance on pay of two pounds sterling just before they leave the non-effective transport depot, or at the time they are there.

Mr. LaFleche: Crown and anchor!

Mr. Adamson: What happened is this, the two pounds very soon finds itself translated into beer or into——

Mr. Power: —a poker game.

Mr. Adamson: Yes, through a regrettable inability to hold the better hands at cards, or some other common mishap. At any rate, by the time the soldier arrives on this side he has no money. I suggest that the grant be still given, but instead of two pounds, give him ten dollars, Canadian currency, which he cannot spend in England, so that when he arrives in Montreal, or wherever he does arrive, he will have some cash.

Mr. Power: What will he do on the boat? Can't you play poker with Canadian money?

Mr. Adamson: Well, it is a little more difficult. The same facilities and space are not present, and there is little or no beer.

The debate, illuminated by the foregoing, was that on the War Appropriation Bill.

165 YEARS OLD

The congratulations of the newspaper fraternity throughout Canada, and indeed on all the continent, will be extended to The Montreal Gazette which has just celebrated its 165th birthday. This is old, very old, so far as newspapers go in the New World, for The Gazette is one of the oldest of these and none of them has maintained better traditions of service. A paradox in the career of that newspaper is recalled in its having been founded in 1778, when Benjamin Franklin appointed Fleury Mesplet to publish it with instructions that it should be a revolutionary organ. Instead of persisting with its original purpose The Gazette is now one of the greatest supporters of the British connection.

It has, indeed, become one of the few leading Canadian dailies, ably conducted, sound in its policies, and allying itself in no ironbound sense to any political party. Its editorial page has a particularly high quality, possibly the highest of any Canadian newspaper, and it has been maintained unimpaired for many decades past. It works unceasingly to promote the country's financial and economic stability, and it has, what every great newspaper strives after, steadfastness in principle. That it maintains this on such a plane is as high praise as any that can be accorded to a newspaper, and The Gazette, as it says itself on its birthday, intends to continue "the independent service which it has rendered over so long a period, a service wholly unrestricted by personal or political allegiances of any kind, devoted only to the highest interest of Canada and its metropolitan city."

DOUBTFUL REMEDY

At the peak of the coal shortage last Winter the suggestion was made that in certain instances and to relieve immediate pressure, coal be dumped in small lots at the householders' gateways. Any endeavor to make that the sole means of delivery, however, would run into a number of practical objections. In a number of households coal at the gateway would be just as far from the furnace as if it never had been mined. Some better remedy than that should be devised.

The Dominion Government, now taking men with coal-mining experience out of factories and even out of the forces, must be impressed with the patent fact that delivery is every bit as important as the coal. The idea of dumping coal in bulk on the street might seem to speed deliveries, but in practice it would do nothing of the kind. There would not be lamps enough in the community to mark the piles of loose coal left on the open streets at night.

What must be remembered is that most households are already fully engaged during the day, and would have little time left to handle coal on wheelbarrows by night. In many instances there is not a single able-bodied individual left in a household, and where is the itinerant labor supply that would fill that immediate and diversified need? With trucks and swampers, a relatively small number of men can supply a community with coal, delivered in the basement where it can be reached and used. Ottawa, if necessary, should allot sufficient man-power for that, and see to it that this class of service is a priority, as it is.

Spring came so late this year that many a man feels that he has been done out of his usual attack of Spring fever. The Summer holidays are too late for it.

Subsidies seem to go everywhere these days except to the man who is really holding the empty bag and wondering what to put in it.

COTSWOLD RAIN

Sometimes in London in the sulky rain
I think of rain upon my Cotswold home
Glittering on hill and roughly-rutted lane
On wet stone wall and freshly-furrowed loam:
Filling the runnels by the smooth highway
Sparkling on tile and turret, flower and fern,
Misting the river-pastures as its spray
Widens the ripples on the wandering Churn.

This is the only country that I know—
My Cotswold meadows. When at last I die
If trees are stripped and silver in the snow,
I shall sleep well beneath a friendly sky.
Sound sleep—but sounder if above my head
The Gloucester rain is mourning for its dead.

THE WEEK

In Summary—It was a week of small news but great preparations on the Western front. With an early setting moon and some break in the weather, heavy bombing of German and German-held objectives eased [illegible] Its place was taken by heavier day sweeps over the Channel, in which British and United States machines drove hard against rails, canal and coastal steamer traffic. A score of locomotives were knocked out in raids on Zeebrugge, Bruges, Nieuport, Vlessingen, Caen and Cherbourg and many other points. Allied machines seemed bent on drawing enemy fighter screens, which were roughly handled. The Luftwaffe returned in small, scattered raids at a number of points in coastal areas in Great Britain. One enemy machine got through to the outskirts of London. Several machine-gunned the streets of provincial towns in hit-and-run raids. Six machines, of a flight of twelve Focke-Wulfs which attacked a southeast coast town, were cut down.

His Majesty observed his official birthday quietly. Three thousand members of the armed services were mentioned in dispatches or otherwise decorated in the honors list, including naval, army and air force leaders who had commanded home defences in the Battle of Britain. Some 625 awards went to Canadians, of which 285 were for civilians. One Victoria Cross was announced. It was given posthumously to Lieut. Koana-Nui-a-Kiwa Ngarimu, a young Maori officer who defended a Tunisian hill at Tebaga Cape until his entire company fell and he himself lay mortally wounded, though firing a machine gun to the last. Mr. Churchill with Anthony Eden and staff of officers arrived at Gibraltar and Algiers in swift succession, before returning safely to Great Britain from Washington. German fighters shot down a transport plane in the Bay of Biscay, looking for the Prime Minister in vain. In Tunisia, Generals Giraud and De Gaulle set up a seven-man council on French affairs and the accord of the week previous ripened.

There were appeals from Spain and from Rome to "preserve the humanities" of aerial warfare though their precise application went unexplained. Argentina in an army revolt, drove a pro-Axis Government into exile and set up a Provisional Government, which then dissolved its House of Representatives. In the United States the Roosevelt Administration won the second round in the long-continued coal mines dispute, affecting 500,000 men. Propaganda mills were busy in Europe all week, but no fresh action had been signaled in the war as a whole. In the East, Germany held off her expected attack upon Russia. In the West the Allies pounded Italy hard. In the Far East, China administered a sharp reverse to Japanese troops in the Yangtze Valley. In the Aleuts United States troops consolidated Attu Island in full possession of Chicagof Harbor. Fighting in the Southwestern Pacific centred about long-range bombing attacks some at a radius of 800 miles.

Of the actions reported that against Italy was the clearest. Allied machines continued heavy raids on the mainland of Italy and also against Pantelleria, Sardinia and Sicily. Foggia, Naples, Spezzia, Cape Spartavento and Catanzar, and other points on the Italian mainland were heavily bombed or shelled. Flights of 100 heavy bombers were making the main attacks which left destruction on airfields, ports, rails, factories, power houses and other express objectives. German fighter opposition continued weak and sometimes absent. In a hard raid on Spezzia United States machines hit three Italian battleships, a heavy cruiser and some other anchored craft. British Wellingtons and others were on other raids which did great damage. At midweek a British naval patrol picked up an Italian convoy off the toe of Italy, sank an enemy destroyer and some supply ships and dispersed the convoy without loss to itself. Allied air and sea control over much of the Western Mediterranean was made manifest in many ways.

• • •

In Russia two hard air raids were exchanged in a week of continued sparring along much of the front. The Germans attacked Kursk with 500 planes, losing 162 of them to Russian gunfire and fighter screens. The Russians replied with a 520-plane raid on Orel where enemy lines of communication were pounded. Other hard raids followed the Orel attack, the Russians bombing German troops in Smolensk and elsewhere behind the long front. Fighting continued on the ground at Krymskaya, Novorossisk and Temryuk in the south, with some patrol clashes on the central and north-central fronts. Main bodies, however, had not moved, although June was one week old. In the heavy air fighting, Russian communiques claimed 750 enemy planes had been destroyed for a loss of 221 Russian machines in the seven-day period.

Of other fronts, China claimed chief attention. There, Chinese [illegible] Japanese columns on the Yangtze River and administered one of the sharpest reverses of the war to the Japanese both north and south of Ichang. Five enemy divisions were trapped and decisively beaten. The Chinese drove on to attack Changyang, twelve miles to the south, and were striking towards the Yangtze on a broad front with fresh air support. In the Southwestern Pacific, Allied bombers pounded Wewak three times in succession and fared farther against more distant objectives in the same chain. Japanese return raids on Wau were repulsed. In the North, the elimination of all Japanese resistance on Attu was confirmed and Allied planes were turning against Kiska, sandwiched in between Attu and Amchitka, in renewed attacks by air. Some 1,500 enemy dead were counted on Attu. In the latter stages of the three weeks campaign fourteen Japanese were taken prisoner. In Burma rains continued in the South while Allied planes bombed Japanese outposts and bases in the Northern area without reply.

From The Comox Argus: "On the Pacific Coast it is time we sloughed off the defensive habit of mind as they have in Britain and other spheres of action. We have a big and well-equipped force on the Pacific Coast willing and eager to get into action. How much longer must we wait to take the weight off China? British Steamship Sunk Off Capes—Capt. Owen and the crew of the British steamer Carpathian, which was torpedoed and sunk off the Virginia Capes early yesterday morning, were landed at an Atlantic port early tonight by the steamer Palmer. They were rescued at sea after drifting for twenty-six hours in small boats. Captain Owen is certain that it was a torpedo and not a mine that struck the vessel. The submarines operating off the coast had not previously been heard from since the Norwegian steamer Eidsvold was sent down at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon off the Virginia Capes.

RATIONING

Sir,—After reading several letters recently in your paper complaining about the rationing system and the various methods used by the W.P.T.B. in its attempts to divide food products, etc., fairly amongst everyone in the country, I feel compelled to state my opinion. We, as a people, should be grateful that there is any food in the country to be rationed.

I wonder how many of us have thought what delight and joy a ten-pound sugar ration for canning purposes would give to housewives in England. Do we realize the luxury o' having one pound of butter a week to divide between two people?

There are two persons in my family and we have ample butter, and after two weeks of meat rationing find we will manage very well with small changes in our menu. Sugar, tea and coffee, if used with care, carry us through the month. I am willing to admit that the canning allowance was a disappointment to me, as I have a quantity of fruit on our own property. However I intend to use my ration to the best advantage and we will do with less jam and canned fruit than in former years.

Perhaps it would help us realize how fortunate we are in this country if we would forget our worries for a minute and think of the starving mothers in Greece, China, Spain and all the other war-ridden countries, who have to watch their hungry children die in their arms for lack of a little milk and a crust of bread.

I think perhaps a little prayer of thankfulness offered up for the good and plentiful food we have might help towards winning the war more quickly, rather than expending our energy and time criticizing the members of the W.P.T.B., who in all probability are trying their very best under difficult circumstances to see that everyone gets a fair share of the country's food supply.

Constructive criticism of the Government by the people is the backbone of our way of life, but selfish complaining is beneath the dignity of any man in times of stress.

REHABILITATION

Sir,—I listened with great interest to Hon. Mr. Perry, Minister of Education, recently on the subject of "Rehabilitation for returned men," and in view of what I am about to state I hope my remarks will not be misconstrued as carping criticism, but rather the expression of a man who is deeply interested in the welfare of his fellow men, especially as I have three sons on active service. I shall never forget the apathy of the Provincial Government when the men returned from the last war and the attitude of hostility displayed to those men who fought to save Canada as a nation, many of whom today merely exist. My God! what a price they have paid—their youth gone, health and limbs lost, and others suffer wounds hidden by the clothes they wear. The agony of mind and body has never been told. We as a people have been too complacent about it all.

In the political set-up of our country, both in Dominion and Provincial affairs, we have listened too often to the glib promise and soft tongue of some clever orator who promised the moon and, after his election, told you it was the proverbial Irish green cheese. I hope that many of our citizens have not forgotten that there are a few members of the present Legislative Assembly who were members at that time and strongly opposed our wishes. They told us it was not their responsibility. They lacked the vision, were indolent in their duty, for they could not grasp the meaning of being "their brother's keeper."

Then some of the more insistent of us requested the Government to bring about an industrial loans commission for the express purpose of helping the returned men to reinstate themselves in the professions, trades and businesses they had prior to the war. Who benefited from this legislation? Certainly not the returned man! I can tell you who did, but prefer not to for courtesy sake. Also, how about the Unemployment Bureau? We also proposed this department, but what happened? Political patronage took hold. How do I know? I was recommended for a position by polling more votes than the three other nominees combined. Why did I not get the job? Political intrigue. I am not at all sorry, for I have at least retained my soul.

May I ask the question in all sincerity: Will this new scheme of rehabilitation be subject to the wiles and whims of the czar of the Liberal Association? Believe me no one can get a job unless he first obtains the O.K. from the village blacksmith. Is this what our sons are fighting for?

Millions of young men are fighting for a new world; thousands will have died to establish it. If we fail to honor the promises given them we dishonor ourselves. What does the new world mean? What was the old world like? It was a world of toil, where myriads of workers, men and women, purchased nothing better than squalor, penury, wretchedness, anxiety—a world scarred by slums, disgraced by sweating, where unemployment, through the vicissitudes of industry, brought despair to multitudes of homes, a world where side by side with want there was waste of the inexhaustible riches of the earth. This resulted partly through ignorance and want of forethought, partly through entrenched selfishness. If we renew the lease of that world we shall betray the heroic dead, we shall be guilty of the basest perfidy that ever blackened a people's name, nay we shall store up retribution for ourselves and our children. So to statesman and politician, office seeker and purveyor of political patronage take heed. Remember the great but lowly Nazarene who once drove the money changers from the temple and bade us to love thy neighbor as thyself and to care for the stranger within thy gates.

It should be the sublime duty of all without thought of partisanship to help in the building of the new world where labor will have its just reward and indolence alone shall suffer want.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt Drydock at any tide, add 18 feet to the height of high water as above given.

According to Culbertson

In expert circles the primary cause of mistakes is over-confidence. When the expert declarer sees that he will have his work cut out for him to bring home the contract he buckles down and turns in a workmanlike job, but when the play looks like a cinch he may get a bit careless. That was the case in today's deal.

The contract itself was certainly conservative enough, inasmuch as a slam in either spades or diamonds seemed to depend only upon a favorable position of the spade king. Actually a spade slam could be defeated by the lead of a diamond, but that selection would require the next thing to clairvoyance on West's part.

Against the four spade contract, West opened the club ace and continued the suit. Winning with dummy's king, declarer now took a spade finesse and, when it held, led a diamond to dummy ... for repetition of again finessing the spade king. East, however, ... interfered with this plan by ruffing the diamond with the spade king and promptly returned a club. Now declarer's queen was neatly dispatched by West's seven of spades and since dummy's highest trump was the six spot there was nothing declarer could do about it. West returned a diamond and East gleefully ruffed with the spade King for the setting trick.

If this deal had occurred at match point duplicate, declarer's line of play would have been beyond criticism, inasmuch as it was obviously the best path by which overtricks could be won. Since this was rubber bridge, however, declarer might well have disdained overtricks in favor of safeguarding his contract. He could well afford to lose a spade trick or even two spade tricks in addition to the club ace. On that basis the safest manoeuvre of all, after winning with the club king, was to lead a spade directly to the ace, then to return the spade queen. This would guard against any conceivable position of cards; the opponents might make the spade king and even get in one ruff of a diamond or a club, but that would be the worst that could happen. Since the spade king actually was on side, declarer's first finesse did no harm, but then he certainly should have laid down the ace of spades. It is quite true that he had no reason to expect that East was void of diamonds, but West's opening lead of the club ace and continuation had been significant of a doubleton, and the mere fact that East might hold ... the indicated possible freakish distribution.

Crippled Ship, Hull Plates Gone, With 15-Degree List, Nursed Into Port by Seamen

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT June 7 (CP).—How their crippled ship victim of a fifty-minute dive-bomber attack was nursed into port with five feet of water flooding her engine room, her hull plating stripped from its rivets and a fifteen-degree list to starboard was related today by two veterans of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve.

The two, said naval headquarters in a press dispatch, were Leading Seamen Stanley Coombes of Edmonton and Stan Sciban, of Saskatoon, members of a crew which "refused to give up." They were serving as gunners aboard a defensively equipped merchant ship. Both had served with the R.C.N.V.R. since 1936 and were called up at the beginning of the present war.

LABORED THROUGH SEA FOR HOURS

After the attack [illegible] labored through North Atlantic swells for twenty-five hours before assistance could be given her. A British destroyer came to her rescue and after great effort collision mats were placed over the gape made in the ship's plates—the effect of depth bombs detonating in the water close alongside—and the merchantman proceeded to port under her own power.

"We were about forty-three hours from our destination when attacked," said Coombes. "I'll never forget the plunge of the first attacker as he plunged down on us firing tracer bullets. They ricocheted across the deck from stem to stern as we returned fire.

"There was a lull of about twenty minutes and then a high raider dropped an aerial depth bomb which exploded alongside our starboard bow lifting the ship out of the water. This was followed by a second bomb which landed off our port quarter again lifting the ship out of the water and knocking us flat on our backs.

AT LEAST THREE MORE BLASTS

"We didn't even have time to get to our feet when a third bomb burst abaft our starboard beam. Two more, possibly three, struck near the ship seconds later doing damage to the hull plating and main discharge valve.

"What happened after that I can't recall as I was knocked out from the concussion of the blasts and didn't come to until the show was over."

"I guess I was too excited to be afraid," said Sciban in recalling the action.

"After the engagement it appeared that the ship was surely doomed. We were listing about fifteen degrees to starboard," Sciban continued. "Our hull plating was battered, fixtures and debris were strewn all over the decks. It was a sorry sight. But the crew were determined to save the ship, and by dint of hard work, purposing, ingenuity and the timely arrival of a destroyer, they saved her."

Sergeant Hopes in Vain for "Just One Crack at a Sub"

Canadian in Bomber's Nose on Convoy Duty In Atlantic Complains to News Writer

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

AN EASTERN CANADIAN R.C.A.F. BASE, June 7 (CP).—"Boy, I'd sure like to scare me up a sub before lunch." Squatted in the greenhouse at the bomber's nose, the sergeant [illegible] along over the Atlantic, he was peering behind every wavecap.

He didn't turn up any subs that day, did Sergeant Ray Voyce of Toronto. Neither did Sergeant Harold Free of Seaforth, Ont., who alternated with him in the transparent ovoid overhanging the ocean.

Under them rolled convoys and warships and assorted ocean trivia. But no subs.

"Just one crack at a sub would make up for all this," said Sgt. Voyce [illegible] out of the plexiglass.

SEEMS LONELIEST JOB IN WORLD

But while the hunt was on he and his fellow wireless operator took turns at the loneliest job in the world. Anyway, it looks like that. Down there in the nose the ocean unwinds below the observer's heels. The rest of the crew inhabit another deck, and to the man in the cage they are just an assortment of voices over the intercom.

The tables are turned when he takes his [illegible] at the wireless. Then he is the crew's link with their base. The tap of his key spans the long miles to land.

Sgt. Free's key has clipped out its terse messages on both sides of the Atlantic. Of the crew with which this reporter flew on anti-sub patrol he was the only veteran of the air war overseas.

WITH R.C.A.F. OVER THREE YEARS

The stocky wag, prematurely grey in his early twenties, has been in the R.C.A.F. more than three years, out of which he put in a considerable hitch overseas. He came back after a long hospital bout with dysentry.

"I was on coastal patrol over there too," he said as we shared the greenhouse for the moment. "Any excitement? Well, just about as much as we're having today." This with a thumb at the placid water underfoot.

But the sergeants keep hope.

Many Calls Made On Slim Purse of Sailors' Hostel

By F. M. KELLEY

There is an institution in this city that should be supported in part at least by Federal funds. It is doing the very kind of work that is being assisted by the Dominion Government in other cities along both coasts of Canada, contributing to the welfare and comfort of merchant seamen.

Connaught Seamen's Institute has attempted to cater to the needs of sailormen calling at the port of Victoria since it was first opened several decades ago. Back of it has been a little group of women who have labored unselfishly to keep its doors open and make the time spent in its hospitable walls by sailormen as pleasant as possible.

This has been no easy task at any time. An institution of this kind requires a bit of money occasionally to keep it running, no matter how diligently everyone labors to keep the wolf away from the portals. Additional hands to help in "the pinches" have generally been forthcoming when sought, and appeals for donations of woolen comforts, so much appreciated by seafarers especially during the Winter months, are, as a rule, responded to generously by the women of Victoria, but sufficient cash to carry on as the women who manage it desire is something else again. There's never been enough of it to do things more than half [illegible].

It is all very well for the powers-that-be who own some better-than-average measure of consideration to such an institution to let Connaught Seamen's Institute get by with little or no financial assistance other than its women workers can manage to raise through their own efforts by appeals to the charitably-minded, but that is hardly good enough. There shouldn't be any charity tag attached to the service rendered by the women of Connaught Seamen's Institute.

SAILORS DESERVE WELL OF THEIR COUNTRYMEN

If anyone deserves well of his countrymen and is entitled to the gratitude of Canadians generally, it is the sailor of the merchant service who serves without a uniform and contributes as much in his way to final Allied victory as his brother of a uniformed service. Without the provision and supply ships shuttling back and forth through perilous seas it would hardly be possible to anticipate the unconditional surrender of the enemy in the course of time. This hoped-for conclusion of hostilities depends as much on the merchant marine as it does on the navy, army and air forces.

In the meantime the women's committee which has the welfare of the sailor and the [illegible] hospitality of the home at heart, not being quitters even though a Government grant seems to be a long way off, do not intend to spare their efforts in making the place they have kept open for so many years as serviceable as possible day by day. They will keep on praying for donations of cash or kind from all who can spare either, and to fatten their always lean-looking money bag are going to hold a tag day on Saturday of this week, during which they hope Victorians will respond with their usual generosity.

Congratulations Extended Veteran Engineer of C.P.R.

SASKATOON, June 7.—Personal congratulations of D. C. Coleman, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, W. A. Mather, vice-president of Western Lines, and three directors of the Canadian Pacific were extended today to Ashley Tomlinson English, veteran locomotive engineer of the Saskatoon division, to whom fell the honor of pulling the president's train from Wilkie to Saskatoon.

"Ash" English, as he is known throughout the division, is retiring at the end of July after forty-two and a half years with the company in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and this was his last chance to pull the president, a distinction always coveted among senior engineers of any division.

As he lovingly ministered to Engine 2575, already spick and span for the occasion, President Coleman walked up to offer his congratulations on a record of long service and able performance. Engineer English will retire with fifteen merit marks to his credit and no mishaps against him.

Great Increase in Foreign Deliveries Of American Planes

CINCINNATI, June 7 (AP).—Two years ago today the first United States-manufactured plane was ferried to the R.A.F. Ferry Command in Canada under lease-lend.

Today Col. William H. Turner, commanding the ferrying division of the Air Transport Command, announced that in the first five months of 1943 the division had increased its foreign deliveries over the comparable period of 1942 by 8,000 per cent.

How many planes are delivered to all points from the United States is a secret which the enemy would [illegible], Col. Turner said.

Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the Army Air Force, told the graduating class at West Point last week that May deliveries alone across the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans aggregated 1,800.

51,321 individual shareholders own Canada's Chartered Banks. The average holding is 28 shares. Most of these shareholders are Canadians.

The wide distribution of bank ownership is indicated by the fact that 36,574 individuals, living in all parts of Canada, hold shares in the Chartered Banks of Canada. Of the remaining shareholders, 8,987 live elsewhere in the British Empire.

Some further facts about Canada's Banks:

There are 4,369,740 savings deposit accounts in the Chartered Banks of Canada, averaging $391 each. Safeguarding the funds of depositors is a primary function of commercial banking. Banks keep themselves in such a position that anybody going to the bank to withdraw his savings can get his money. Banks, like any other business, exist because they provide service which a community needs and is willing to pay for at a rate which will yield a reasonable return.

Every day, bank loans are helping Canadians in all walks of life and in all parts of Canada to profit from their individual enterprise and industry.

To Aid Men of Merchant Navy

MRS. F. MACKENZIE

CONVENER of the tag day to be held on Saturday in aid of the Connaught Seamen's Institute. "This is an important day, for on its results depends much of the future use of the Connaught Seamen's Institute, which relies in large measure on the tag day proceeds for its maintenance. The institute is open to men of the merchant navy, and dances, parties and socials are held there for the men in from the sea. Apart from this the members of the Connaught Seamen's Institute have supplied quantities of woollens ... sea-going men—sweaters, sea boot-socks, turtle neck sweaters—and have asked for good used clothing suitable for those men who have lost their personal belongings. The men of the merchant navy deserve our warmest support," said Mrs. Mackenzie, "and Saturday I am sure will demonstrate Victoria's interest in our seamen." Headquarters for the day will be I.O.D.E. rooms, Union Building, and Mrs. G. Lane will assist Mrs. Mackenzie with the affair.

Photographic Exhibits Of Even Higher Average

To create interest in and to prepare for the International Victoria Salon of Photography which is held here each year, members of the Victoria Photographic Association are holding an open exhibition in David Spencer's Art Gallery, where about one hundred prints are on show until Saturday.

"A better average of print exhibits than has been shown before" was the studied comment of one of the officials yesterday at the opening of the exhibit.

While the range of subjects is varied, including some original and unusual studies, the excellence of the photography is uniform. There are some prints that definitely take a higher rank, but there are none that are mediocre or reveal either carelessness in technique or lack of artistry.

One of the interesting points of the review was the diversity shown by photographic artists whose work is classed. For instance, "Ken," whose portraiture work is well known here, has shown some enterprising use of wires and telephone pole backed by nebulous cloud effect. His strong construction and clever lighting in his picture of "Myfanwy," Mrs. Spencer Campbell sitting at her easel painting P. F. Winslow, is in direct contrast to his study of "Structure," showing brick wall, chimney and mun... one pipe. However his love of portraiture is revealed in his camera vignette of Francis Harrison and a timely study, "Canuck," showing pretty Miss Thea Arbuthnot in her welder's outfit as she meets the need of the times at work at V.M.D.

R. I. Colby, director of the international salon and recognized as one of the earliest serious pictorial workers in the Victoria association, is occupying himself with outdoor studies and has several to his credit. No. 55, "Grey Weather," catches the cold, clear crispness with its penetrating tang. Two studies that breathe the atmosphere of the Okanagan are 54, "Benches," and 52, "Pine Vista," while 25, "... is a soft contemplative scene on the shores of Thetis Lake.

WON WELL-DESERVED ACCLAIM

Hester Wilkinson, whose work has won well-deserved acclaim in child studies, also shows a study of a man reading, strong in expression and composition, entitled "Twenty-Third Psalm." Her studies of children are entrancing. No. 24, "Here I Is," being marked by naturalness and innocence.

Leonard Holmes has loaned some of his admirable work to the exhibit, perhaps the most ... study of his being an old lumberjack, the wrinkled, hard face with its kindly humor giving the picture a vivid, vital countenance.

C. H. Summers displays a very fine example of landscape in subdued sepia tones. His No. 36 gives fine tree detail and the warm sun beating on the team of horses as they strain up a slope gives a clear picture of work in a field.

"Frost Fingers" is a clever disposition of light and darkness. The child's figure ... as he places his finger on the ... light pattern ... on the window. This is by Lewis Clark. Marcia Prior in her "Woodland Wanderer" shows a nice feeling for texture and form, and in the attractive model, Patience Birley, Marcia ... a figure silhouetted against a ... sky, ski-joring.

J. C. Hawkes, who is a photographic student of few years, but with great enthusiasm, is interested in industrial shots, and with ... miniature camera has made an interesting study of a lathe.

MANY LOCAL VIEWS SHOWN

Kay "K" Reynard shows several personal studies. ... G. J. A. George Alexander has presented the ... known ... at Beacon Hill Park from a new and entire artist's angle, framed ... weeping willow. Irvine Dawe, president and director of the last two international salons, has lent No. 27, an outdoor study at Goldstream with the silver moonlight touching the still waters and good rich tones embodied in the subdued evening scene.

S.S. (Miss Burt-Smith) has forwarded pictures of children and animals and is happy in these expressions. For landscape she has chosen a typical scene of Banff.

W. H. Squire shows some admirable studies in expression in his portraiture work. No. 79, "Saturday Night," is a clever piece of work and No. 81, showing a colored man contentedly ... at an old pipe ... while No. 80 is a ... "Cheery Oyster At the Pig and Whistle."

H. Whittaker has taken time and thought in presenting No. 57, "Winter Shadows," and the lighting is interestingly arranged. No. 42, "Talking Turkey," is another study of his that caused comment at the opening yesterday. Mr. Whittaker, chief architect for the Province of British Columbia, is able to reproduce architectural subject with pictorial effect.

The work of H. G. Cox is already well known and highly regarded by photographic lovers and this exhibit brings more of his excellent work before the public. Mountain tops and windswept spaces ... the medium for some of his artistic reproductions. He also shows portraiture studies.

Overseas League Hears Address by Lady Swettenham

Lady Swettenham, who has an intimate knowledge of Jamaica and its people, addressed the members of the Victoria branch of the Overseas League meeting yesterday afternoon at the Empress Hotel on the early history and colonization of the island, relating colorful reminiscences which brought the balmy isle very close to her listeners.

Sir Robert Holland presided at the meeting and introduced the speaker, Mrs. M. M. Reasley moving the vote of thanks.

PRESENTATION IS MADE

Mrs. A. G. MacDonald, retiring honorary corresponding secretary, was presented with a fountain pen and pencil set, suitably engraved, accompanied by a cheque, the latter a gift to her favorite charity. In making the presentation Sir Robert Holland paid tribute to the magnificent work of Mrs. MacDonald on behalf of the Victoria branch of the league during her year as secretary, and of the great burden she assumed in shipping overseas the clothing consignments which are greatly appreciated at the London headquarters.

Following a gracious word of thanks from the recipient, the new secretary was introduced, Mr. F. E. Blower, who will assume office immediately, although business meetings will not be held in July and August.

SEND VALUABLE SHIPMENTS

A shipment of twelve cases of clothing was sent on May 2, weighing over one ton. Forty tons have now been sent, and Mrs. MacDonald reported it is no exaggeration to value each ton at $2,000. Not even to her closest friends had Mrs. MacDonald appealed for fund, and concluding her report, she felt justified in saying the Victoria branch of the Overseas League has made its contribution to the service of the Empire.

Other figures showed ... $588.85 sent to London from December, 1942, to May 31 of this year. Bank deposit during the same period $104.10; cash contributions ... wool received by Mrs. A. ... convener ... total for six months $758.66.

At the start of the meeting a silent tribute was paid to the memory of Col. J. H. McMullin, Miss B. Grant and Mrs. A. O. Price, members of the Victoria branch of the league who recently passed away.

Cost of one of the 4,000-pound bombs the R.A.F. is dropping on Germany is roughly $1,500. The cost of training a pilot is greater than that of a university degree.

EXTEND YOUR MEAT RATION
McGAVIN'S RATION STRETCHING RECIPE NO 2.

Rationing need cause you no misgivings—not when you learn the knack of making a little meat go a long way by combining it with other foods, as shown in the recipe given here. Good nutrition is largely a matter of well-balanced meals—of choosing the right foods. When they are accompanied by McGavin's Good Bread, they are made more nourishing and enjoyable. White or brown, every loaf has the same uniform high quality, plus fine flavour and long-lasting freshness. The whole family will approve your choice of McGavin's Good Bread. Ask for it by name.

McGAVIN'S Good BREAD
YOUR BUDGET'S BEST FRIEND

BEEF LOAF
1 egg, slightly beaten — 2 pounds ground beef
1 cup milk — 2 teaspoons salt
1 cup dry bread crumbs — ¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion — ½ cup chili sauce or ketchup

Combine egg and milk; add bread crumbs and soak 10 minutes. Add beef, onion, salt and pepper; mix lightly. Do not pack. Place in a loaf pan or shape into a loaf on a shallow baking pan. Spread ketchup or chili sauce on the top. Bake in a moderate oven (350 F.) for about 1 hour. If desired equal amounts of beef and veal can be used. Tomato juice may be substituted for milk; or for a drier loaf reduce or omit liquid. To make a Sandwich Salad Loaf, cover the loaf with a thick peppy boiled dressing and chill.

Economy With Meat

When purchasing meat it is economical to secure a larger quantity than that required for one day providing it can be kept in a cold place.

If there is a bone in the roast, even a small one take it home with you. It will flavor soup. Excess tallow fat can be removed and ground for suet After the meat is roasted, the making of leftovers depends entirely upon the art of the cook in seasoning. The following is a recipe that provides a whole course in itself It can be prepared early, and cooked quickly.

MACARONI CASSEROLE

- 1½ cups broken macaroni
- 1¼ cups tomatoes
- 2 cups chopped or ground leftover meat or hamburger
- 1 onion
- ½ cup cheese
- ½ teaspoon mustard
- ½ teaspoon salt and pepper mixed

Boil macaroni until tender, drain and rinse with cold water Add the other ingredients without the cheese

Bake in moderate oven fifteen minutes (twenty-five minutes if meat is not cooked)

Add cheese and leave uncovered in oven five minutes until cheese melts.

WEEKLY WARTIME NUTRITION HINTS

S-t-r-e-t-c-h-i-n-g Meat

Combine meat with other foods to make delicious meat flavour stretch

Meat tastes good and is one of the essential protective foods. It is the outstanding source of proteins and a good source of vitamins of the B complex, iron, phosphorous and copper—all nutritional essentials which are not stored in the body to any great extent and must be supplied regularly by the food we eat On top of all this, meat is 96 to 98 per cent digestible.

In these days, then, when we must be content with a smaller share of meat than that to which we have, perhaps, been accustomed, it is very important to know how to make a little meat go a long way. Here are some simple general rules:

1. Plan meals ahead so that your share is well spread over the week.

2. Know your meat cuts . . . get to know the cuts you haven't bothered with before Buy wisely.

Besides meat be sure to serve each day tomatoes or citrus fruit or their juices, one other fruit, two vegetables, potatoes, cereal, bread and milk Eggs, three or four a week

3. Store meat safely. Remove wrapping from all fresh meat wipe cover loosely, store in cold place till cooking time . . . be careful to treat left-overs this way too

4. Cook meat carefully Don't over-cook, use moderate even temperatures to avoid shrinkage

5. Don't waste meat Save trimmings, save fats, save bones Use left-overs for savoury hashes, croquettes, casseroles

6 S-t-r-e-t-c-h the flavour. Combine with other foods, vegetables, bread crumbs, potatoes, rice, spaghetti, to make meat go further. Stuff chops, bread cutlets, etc, to make one pound look like two.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP).—Scattered specialties breasted the downward stock market current with some success in today's session but many leaders suffered losses of fractions to more than two points.

Brokers found nothing outstanding to account for the general retreat. Profit cashing on the [illegible] upswing may have been one reason. Commitments were lightened because of persistent tax and labor doubts and start of the expected big Allied European invasion. The encouraging factor from the standpoint of the bulls was that offerings never were urgent. Analysts inclined to term the dip a partial "healthy" technical correction on the push to the highest average level since late 1939.

Mild advances were well distributed at the start. Rails then began to back water as hearings got under way on demands of operating brotherhoods for a 30 per cent wage boost. Other groups were quick to follow. There were a few recoveries near the close.

The Associated Press average of sixty stocks was off .3 of a point at 51.7, widest drop in this barometer since May 14. The market was fairly broad, 920 individual issues being traded. Of these 488 were losers, 233 gainers and 199 unchanged. Transfers totaled 1,212,820 shares against 1,254,856 in the preceding five-hour stretch.

Chrysler was a soft spot at one time and ended off 5-8 at 81 notwithstanding the company reported first quarter net of $1.46 a share compared with $1.13 in the like 1942 months. General motors conceded 5-8 at 55 1-4.

Prominent on the stumble were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, U.S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, J.I. Case, United Aircraft, Anaconda, American Can, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, International Harvester, American Smelting and Public Service of N.J.

MONTREAL, June 7 (CP).—Thirty Montreal area residents, some of them farmers, others wholesalers, were today summoned to appear in court within a week to answer charges of violating Prices Board regulations in connection with the sale of potatoes.

How It Started—

"GRASS WIDOW"

Many a June bride is due to become a grass widow, but the wife is not, as a college student once defined the phrase, "the wife of a vegetarian!"

Slang for a woman living apart from her husband, "grass widow" first meant an unmarried mother.

Its original form is said to have been grace widow—that is, a woman who was a widow not in the sense that her husband had died, but by courtesy of grace—of the state, church or community.

FIND WRECKED PLANE

MILWAUKEE, June 7 (AP).—A twin-engined transport plane unreported to its base at Mitchell Field here since May 31, has been found wrecked eighteen miles west of Austin, Nev., with eleven dead aboard, Lieut.-Col. Willis Proctor, field commandant, said Sunday.

SINK NAZI SHIP

LONDON, June 7 (CP).—A force of light coastal craft manned by Norwegian crews torpedoed and sank a German supply ship in the North Sea Friday night and crippled a mine sweeper escort under the noses of shore guns south of Stavanger, a Norwegian communique said Saturday.

Would Increase Contributions

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP).—President Roosevelt renewed Saturday recommendation that contributions to the social security system be increased as a means of combatting inflation.

In signing a local bill amending the District of Columbia's Compensation Act, the President noted that the measure provided for "an ultimate reduction in the rate of [illegible] of [illegible], although [illegible] other desirable [illegible] improvements." Then his statement [illegible]:

"In a period of [illegible] pressure is not a time [illegible] taxes. This is a time [illegible] expenditure, pay off debts and build up reserves.

"I [illegible] attention of the Congress and [illegible] the desirability of increasing contributions in all branches of the social security system as a means of absorbing excess purchasing power now and providing a fund from which payments can be made in case of need at a later time."

Glancing Over Sport—

By JOE DELAHUNTY

THE NAVY'S WASHING

Navy baseballers won last evening's game in the very first inning when they hit the plate nine times before the Eagles could turn out the fire. Fifteen batters went to the platter and more than 50 per cent of them found their way around the cushions. They should have called it an evening right then for the feathered tribe had no earthly hopes of catching the bluejackets. It's too bad, but every time the Eagles play the opposition goes out and fattens its batting average . . . Glancing over the week's softball schedule, I see where the Sports Club will be matching base hits with the Adverts tomorrow night. That should be the feature attraction of the week for neither club has suffered a setback since the curtain went up some weeks ago. Both managers will send their ace chuckers to the mound for they will be gunning for victory from the time umpire calls "play ball" . . . Western Prince finishing out of the money in the sixth race yesterday at Winnipeg doesn't make sense. He most likely went to the post a strong favorite but he wasn't even one, two, three. Baby Broom was the winner and paid a good price at that, while Nitrogen was in the place berth and Gloverdale took the show money while Western Prince trailed the field in a six-horse gallop . . . To settle a wager, Joe Louis kayoed Max Schmeling in their second meeting in the first canto back in June of 1938 in just over a minute and thirty seconds.

FROM HERE AND THERE

Mr and Mrs Golf Phan take your hats off to Freddy Basanta, runner-up in this year's club championship at the Gorge course, for disqualifying himself on the second hole during the Matson Cup event on Sunday when he discovered he was playing the wrong ball. Nobody knew that he was breaking the rules better than Freddy, for after all, he was brought up through the caddie ranks at the Colwood course and therefore automatically pushed himself out of the running when he found his mistake. How many shotmakers would do that? You could name them on your finger tips, I will guarantee that . . . Freddy finished out the round despite the fact that he had his card torn up right on the spot. That is sportsmanship at its best, so from this corner we say better luck in future tournament . . . Until Count Fleet enters the four-year-old division the racing fans in the United States are just going to get paid off at ten cents in the two dollars. When he moves out of that company and faces better rivals The Fleet will have everything his own way. He won last Saturday to complete the "triple crown" (Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes), from here to the City Hall. Jockey Johnny Longden could have gone to sleep and still captured the purse without even coming to life . . . Do you know that Jack Stewart, Harry Watson and Sid Abel, members of last season's Stanley Cup winners from Detroit, are now in the Royal Canadian Air Force at a manning pool at Lachine, Quebec? Maybe that city is building up an Allan Cup machine also . . . Fighter Johnny Green's many handlers, advisers, well wishers, managers and Promoter Mike Jacobs have finally fixed him for good. He enters the ring on June 15 to swap blows with the hard-punching Bob Montgomery, the lightweight titleholder.

ODDS AND ENDS

Remember when Paul Berlenbach scored a decisive fifteen-round win over W. L. "Young" Stribling in defence of his light-heavyweight boxing title at New York? That will be seventeen years ago next Thursday night. A crowd of some 55,000 saw Berlenbach, who was stripped of the title a month later by Jack Delaney, force the fight in nearly every round to gain the unanimous decision over Stribling. The latter was killed in a motorcycle accident on October 3, 1933 . . . Also remember when The United States carried its monopoly on the Wightman Cup for the eighth consecutive year when Helen Moody defeated Kay Stammers, of Great Britain, in the international tennis series at Wimbledon? Yes, that was five years ago this week. The experience and speed of Mrs. Moody, now Helen Wills Moody Roark, gave her an early edge, but once Miss Stammers got used to the style she put up a hard fight and the match finished 6-2, 3-6, 6-3 . . . Gardenias to Ernie Peden, brother of "Torchy" and Doug, on winning the annual Matson Cup golf tournament at the Gorge Vale course on Sunday. He edged out Al Simpson by a single blow after completing the thirty-six-hole distance. Finishing in third spot was Ernie Brachat, who was out in front of the field at the end of the morning round, but required four strokes after lunch. However, Ernie had to share that position with B. Snape, who also had a total of 142 for the route . . . Eph Robinson, club champion at the Vale for the last two years, was well up the list. However, it's tough for a low-handicapper to win a tournament of this nature, for the odds are strongly against him from the start. In other words, he has two strikes on him before he even tees off . . . Seattle Rainiers are doing well for themselves these days. They split even on Sunday in a double bill with the Hollywood Stars and that's something unusual for the Sound City team.

Gunder Haegg to Quit After Tour

Swedish Runner Says He Will Drop From Competition in September

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP).—Gunder Haegg will retire from running after he completes his American tour, probably in September, and settle down to being a good fireman in Gaevle.

The Swede, holder of seven world track records, made this announcement today as he made plans to match speed with America's best. His first start will be in either the 1,500 or 5,000 metres at the United States national A.A.U. championships June 19-20.

"I'm getting too old," he explained. "Running takes too much time. I have my job, and I'd rather be a good fireman than a champion runner. Running is just a hobby for me."

Haegg said he was twenty-four and "past my peak." He said he was a little afraid of the conditions he can obtain in this country, but that he wanted to meet America's foremost runners before he retired.

The six-foot, gaunt, hollow-cheeked blonde runner is extremely interested in meeting Greg Rice, America's crack distance runner. Told that Rice is twenty-seven years old and had no intention of retiring unless his maritime war work interferes, Haegg flashed a wide smile and shook his head as if he didn't believe it.

"I've been told that all your American runners stopped running in their early twenties. I don't think they are much good after they leave college." He went on to point to Bill Bonthron, of Princeton, a top miler in his undergraduate days, as an example.

Emil von Elling, coach of New York University's championship track team, was asked about the latter statement and he said that he thought Haegg had been misinformed about American athletes.

"He probably has heard that the average American runner comes out of college when he is twenty-one or twenty-two years old, has no plans for future track competition and goes into business," said Von Elling.

Von Elling pointed out that Phil Edwards, great New York University middle distance runner, ran in three Olympics for Canada and was best at twenty-nine; that Don Lash was at his peak in the 1936 Olympics when he was about twenty-six or twenty-seven and that Glenn Cunningham made most of his records when he was twenty-eight.

Peden Tops Matson Cup Golf Field

Wins Tournament By a Lone Stroke

Turning in net eighteen hole scores of 71 and 69, Ernie Peden captured the annual Matson Memorial Trophy on Sunday at the Gorge Vale Golf Club from a large field of shotmakers who, by the way, represented all the courses in the city. The new Island handicap champion finished with a net total of 140 to beat out Al Simpson by a single stroke. Simpson had rounds of 70 and 71.

Finishing in a deadlock for the next two places were Ernie Brachat and B. Snape with cards of 142. Brachat was the first-round leader and appeared to be the winner until he faltered on a few holes after lunch time. He had the lowest net in the forenoon with a 69, which was equaled by Peden in the afternoon. Brachat had a net 73 on his second trip around the layout, while Snape had rounds of 72 and 70. In the next position was Dave Barr with 77 and 67, his final score being the lowest of the day. Next came H. G. "Scotty" McKenzie with 147, and tied with 149s were A. Jurilloff and Eph Robinson, Gorge Vale Club titleholder.

VANCOUVER, June 7 (CP).—Vancouver Burrards defeated Richmond 16-12 tonight in the opening game of the Senior Intercity Box Lacrosse League season. Alex Matheson, Richmond forward, playing his first game in senior company, led scorers with five goals.

BREAKS HIS COLLAR BONE

CLEVELAND, June 7 (AP).—Cleveland Indians Outfielder Hank Edwards suffered a broken collar bone in a collision with Jeff Heath during the recent series with Philadelphia and will be out of action four weeks, the club's physician said today.

Edwards was injured last Thursday. The rookie outfielder's loss leaves the Indians with only Heath, Oris Hockett and Roy Cullenbine to patrol the outfield, and no replacements in sight.

Stan Musial Slides Safely Into Home Plate

The world champion St. Louis Cardinals started their series with the Giants in a twin bill at the Polo Grounds, New York. Here is action in the first half. Stan Musial, Cards fielder, slides safely into home plate on Teemmate O'Dea's single. Mel Ott picked up the ball and threw to Catcher Mancuso, who dropped the ball, allowing the run for the Cards.

Third of Season Now Completed

Major Leaguers Finish First Swing Around Circuit—Dodgers Triumph

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP).—The major leagues have completed approximately one-third of all their intersectional competition for the entire season and the results indicate that the Eastern clubs in the American League have a big edge over the West, while there is little difference between the strength of the two sections in the National.

The best showing of any one club in either league in the month of East-West jousting was made by the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, who won eighteen out of twenty-six games from their Eastern rivals and finally moved into first place in the senior circuit.

But the cellar-dwelling Chicago Cubs won only eight of twenty-five contests and pulled down the margin of the Western section to a total of fifty-three victories against forty-seven defeats.

In the American League the Eastern clubs won fifty-two and lost forty, even though the first-place New York Yankees could do no better than break even with ten wins and ten losses. All that kept the Yanks on top during the long intersectional grind, as a matter of fact, was their fat cushion of thirteen to five in the early-season games with the other Eastern clubs.

The best performance of any American League club in the intersectional competition was Washington's, winning fourteen out of twenty-three games. This boosted the Senators into second place and even gave them a temporary touch at the lead.

All clubs in both leagues will be idle tomorrow, after which the two leagues will swing back into action with East against East and West against West, although only six games in the National and eight in the American are carded before Saturday.

The next intersectional round will start June 30 and last for two weeks, leading up to the annual all-star game at Philadelphia Tuesday night, July 13.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

PITTSBURGH, June 7 (AP).—Brooklyn's Dodgers clustered four hits for four runs in the eighth inning tonight, winding up their none too successful Western tour with a 4-1 victory over Pittsburgh before 10,162 fans. The triumph put the Dodgers into a virtual tie with St. Louis for the National League leadership although trailing in percentage points.

It was another personal triumph for Freddy Fitzsimmons over the Pirates who had beaten him for the first time in three years earlier this season.

Big Fitz allowed seven hits, four of them by Frankie Gustine, who opened the Buccaneers' first inning with a triple and counted on a passed ball.

Angels Win Twin Bill

League Leaders Trim Sacramento

The league-leading Los Angeles Angels scored their second successive double victory over Sacramento here Sunday, with Jake Mooty shutting out the Solons 5-0 in the opener and Red Lynn applying the whitewash in a 1-0 seven-inning nightcap. Mooty allowed the losers three hits and Lynn five.

San Francisco scored 8-1 and 5-2 victories over San Diego in a twin bill to walk off with the series by a 4-1 margin. Al Lien and Bad Sam Gibson pitched the Seals wins. Lien gave up two hits and Gibson four.

Hollywood and Seattle broke even in a league double-header today. Hollywood took the ten-inning opener, 4-3, on pinch-hitter Hill's two-run homer and the Rainiers annexing the seven-inning nightcap, 7-6.

Portland defeated Oakland twice, 8-2 and 5-1, to take the series six games to one and hand the Acorns their worst beating thus far in the Coast League season.

Count Fleet May Run In Classic At Chicago Park

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP).—Whether Count Fleet keeps his engagement in the Arlington classic at Chicago, July 24, depends on the seriousness of an ankle injury suffered Saturday while running away with the Belmont Stakes at Belmont Park.

The three-year-old champion from Mrs. John D. Hertz's barn hit himself during the mile and one-half jaunt which he won by thirty lengths. The ankle, his left one, swelled soon after the race and still was swollen today, but stable foreman Ralph Hewitt said he was hopeful the Count would be able to travel West for the next big three-year-old stake.

This is the second time the Count has been injured this Spring. He suffered a cut on his left hind leg in the Wood Memorial but it was not serious enough to interrupt his training for the Kentucky Derby.

Wednesday—V.M.D. vs. Navy.

Saturday—R.C.A.F. vs. Navy (afternoon), Army vs. V.M.D. (evening).

Unable to climb aboard the winning tan in eight starts, Manager George Syrotuck's lowly Eagles last night absorbed their worst licking of the 1943 flag chase, a 20-5 shellacking at the hands of the Royal Canadian Navy baseballers.

Birdmen sent three pitchers to the mound and finally wound up the ragged one-sided exhibition with First Baseman Noel Morgan doing the mound chores. The first sacker was called to the rescue when Bill Arts, third Eagles hurler, was shelled from the hillock in the sixth inning.

Eagles got away on the wrong foot and were unable to regain their equilibrium in the drawn-out eight-inning affair. As early as the first frame the birdmen were in trouble, so much so in fact that they needed three hurlers before they retired the Navy ballers. And then fifteen men paraded to the home plate before the session ended and nine runs were chalked up.

Bayley opened on the hillock and had five runs chalked up against him and none down before he was taken out in favor of Stoltz. The relief hurler was no improvement on the starting flinger and runs continued to pile up. With two men down, oddly enough by the strike-out route, Stoltz came out of the ball game and Arts took over.

For four frames Arts got by very nicely and it looked as if he was going to stop the sailors, but in the sixth the bluejackets "unloaded" with a flock of base knocks and Mr. Arts made for the showers.

NOEL MORGAN WINDS UP AS PITCHER

Noel Morgan, southpaw first sacker, took over the mound chores for the Eagles and did equally as well if not better than the regular members of Manager George Syrotuck's hurling staff.

Sailors punched out a total of sixteen base hits and quite a few of the lads fattened their batting averages at the expense of the opposing flingers.

"Hi" Jinks, tallest hurler in the senior loop, worked for seven innings, being relieved in the final frame by Jimmy Dumeah. The starting pitcher gave up all of the Eagles hits and all of their runs.

Dumeah, slated to pitch against the V.M.D. tomorrow, worked the last session just as a warm-up for his more important hurling chores. The husky right-hander walked the first three batters to face him and then proceeded to retire the next trio via the strikeout route.

Wally Thompson, Navy, and Rex Clarkson, Eagles, each hit for the circuit inside the ball park. The sailor poked the ball out to deep right field and Clarkson hit to the opposite field.

Dietrick and Clarkson, lead-off men for their respective clubs, each had perfect nights with the willow.

TOAST and TEA

By J. V. McAREE

THERE is an interesting story behind the invention of the Raglan overcoat or rather the Raglan sleeve which gives it its distinctive character. It had its origin in one of the innumerable blunders which characterized the Crimean War. It seems that in the dead of Winter one army ran out of heavy clothing. But there had recently arrived from England a shipment of potatoes. Officers and men seized the bags and used them as coverings. Lord Raglan cut holes in them to admit his arms and so had a rough cloak or coat of sorts. After the war was over he returned to England and one day when ordering a new overcoat he told his tailor of the ease and comfort he had found in his potato-sack in the Crimea. The tailor gave the matter his profound consideration and in a day or two produced the overcoat which was to become famous and bear an illustrious name.

OLD BASEBALLER DIES

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7 (CP)—Mike Fisher, eighty-one, one of the founders of the Pacific Coast Baseball League, died here yesterday after a two-week illness.

Fisher, who picked his own middle name, thus becoming Michael Angelo Fisher, was a colorful figure in the Pacific Coast baseball world.

He assembled an all-star baseball team and toured the Orient in 1907. He told of wheeling his gate receipts [illegible] after a game in China [illegible] $1 in American ex[change] [illegible].

Fisher obtained the Sacramento franchise when the Coast League was organized in 1903. He previously had operated a California State League club in the state capital.

Later he moved the franchise to Tacoma and still later to Fresno. He dropped out of organized baseball in 1907.

Willie Pep Goes Tonight

To Risk Boxing Championship

BOSTON, June 7 (AP)—Ignoring the disapproval of his throne-makers, Willie Pep, Hartford's able holder of the New York version of the featherweight boxing championship, will make his initial defence of that disputed title in a fifteen-round bout against Boston's Sal Bartolo tomorrow night at Braves' Field.

This bout has the blessing of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission. Pep, however, was awarded his title by the New York commission and those fistic fathers have ruled that he can defend that title only under their jurisdiction.

Expecting an induction call in July and in a rush to reap a financial harvest before then, Pep does not appear to be worrying about the technicalities that tend to confuse his first title defence.

He has been guaranteed $30,000 to engage Bartolo, who previously gave the Connecticut youngster the stiffest kind of an argument here and also has been offered five-figure terms to clash with Chalky Wright, his predecessor, and Jackie Callura of Hamilton, Ont., the N.B.A.'s titlist, before answering the draft board's final call.

According to the Boston Boxing Association, sponsor of Boston's first outdoor title affair in history, the advance sale has passed the $45,000 mark and indications point to a 25,000 attendance and more than $75,000 in gate receipts.

Zoot-Suiters Are Mauled By Servicemen

LOS ANGELES, June 7 (AP)—Traffic was halted and crowds of curious jammed downtown streets from curb to curb tonight to watch incensed servicemen ferret out zoot-suited hoodlums they blame for numerous unprovoked assaults upon uniformed men, civilians and women.

It was the third consecutive night the servicemen ranged the streets in search of the rakishly attired rowdies, but in most instances they fled in time to escape beatings similar to those administered by uniformed men, mostly sailors, to the youthful gangs during the week-end.

A number of them were caught and badly mauled, however, police reported.

In some instances the servicemen tore the draping zoot suits off the victims and left them lying nude in the street.

UNWINDING

[illegible] the first downswing [illegible] with the left hip two important factors are accomplished. In the first place [the] turn of the left hip to the left will insure that this portion of the body is well out of the path of the hands as they come through the impact zone. Secondly it initiates a proper start for the downswing, a beginning which allows the other essentials flowing into a proper stroke to dovetail smoothly and permits a rhythmic as well as powerful swinging effort. The left hip turning aside as illustrated above brings the left heel back onto the ground and two combined set up a tension in the left side that is only alleviated by pulling down the club with the left arm. Provided the arm is extended as shown above, the arc of the stroke is likely to be constant, a procedure which leads to a grooved dependable stroke.

Just how the left side pull is reflected in the swing is plainly shown in a study of the two illustrations above. The muscles of the upper body are more taut after the left hip has started turning, taking up the slack that did exist there. The downstroke in turn becomes a natural reaction, the left pulling the club down and the power that lies in the shoulders, back and midsection abetting it and gradually adding momentum to the clubhead. Proper unwinding in this manner conserves the wrist cock until the hitting area is reached.

Jack Benny Comedy Is Held at Dominion

Jack Benny and Rochester recently sliced into a big chocolate cake to observe an important anniversary.

The party, which took place on the set of 20th Century-Fox's "The Meanest Man in the World," marked the [tenth] year of the hilarious collaboration between the nation's foremost comedian and his gravel-voiced heckler.

Starring Jack Benny and Priscilla Lane, "The Meanest Man in the World," made from the hilarious stage hit, has been held over for three more days at the Dominion Theatre.

Rochester heads the featured cast of the film which includes Edmund Gwenn, Anne Revere and Helene Reynolds.

YORK THEATRE—There are 137 speaking roles in the picture "Meet John Doe," now showing at the York Theatre. Gary Cooper and Barbara Stanwyck are co-starred in this Frank Capra production. Featured are Edward Arnold, Spring Byington, Walter Brennan, Gene Lockhart, Rod La Rocque, Irving Bacon, James Gleason and Regis Toomey.

RIO THEATRE—The greatest cast ever seen in one motion picture is assembled in "Tales of Manhattan," the 20th Century-Fox picture now showing at the Rio Theatre. The film, produced by Boris Morros and S. P. Eagle, stars Charles Boyer, Rita Hayworth, Ginger Rogers, Henry Fonda, Charles Laughton, Edward G. Robinson, Paul Robeson, Ethel Waters, Rochester and many others.

PLAZA THEATRE—At last Barbara Stanwyck has the laugh on the Hollywood film producer who once bought the play "Burlesque" while she was starring in it on the Broadway stage and refused to let her play this same role on the screen, saying she was not the type. Now, not so many years later, Barbara, who is one of Hollywood's biggest stars, has the principal role in Hunt Stromberg's fascinating film "Lady of Burlesque," now showing at the Plaza Theatre.

OAK BAY THEATRE—The New York World's Fair serves as a background for "Remember," the second feature on the bill at the Oak Bay Theatre. It is gay, light, amusing and turbulent romance with an unusual and novel interweaving of plot. Robert Taylor, Greer Garson, Lew Ayres, Billie Burke and Reginald Owen have the leading roles.

ATLAS THEATRE—There are more than forty top-notch performers in Paramount's musical comedy "Star Spangled Rhythm," now showing at the Atlas Theatre. To mention a few, they include Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Fred MacMurray, Franchot Tone, Ray Milland, Victor Moore, Dorothy Lamour, Paulette Goddard, Vera Zorina, Mary Martin, Dick Powell, Betty Hutton, Eddie Bracken, Veronica Lake, Alan Ladd and Rochester.

CADET THEATRE—Recommended as one of this season's most entertaining comedy innovations, "Between Us Girls" is now showing at the Cadet Theatre. Diana Barrymore, who co-stars with Robert Cummings, gives sharp performances as she appears as Joan of Arc, Queen Victoria and Sadie Thompson. Kay Francis, John Boles, Andy Devine, Walter Catlett, Ethel Griffies and Guinn Williams all have strong supporting roles.

CAPITOL THEATRE—An authentic picture of how Germany molds its young boys and girls into fanatical adherents to the Nazi creed of ruthless world domination is presented as the background of RKO Radio's sensational dramatic romance "Hitler's Children," featuring Tim Holt, Bonita Granville and Kent Smith in leading roles. The picture, based on Gregor Ziemer's sensational book "Education for Death," is now showing at the Capitol Theatre.

Municipalities Discuss Health Education, Fuel

"Our financing at the present time would not justify any important changes in education," said Premier John Hart addressing the annual conference of the Municipal Officers' Association of British Columbia when he welcomed them to their two-day session at the Parliament Buildings yesterday.

Because of present wartime financial arrangements between the provinces and the Dominion, such changes would necessarily have to wait till after the war, said the Premier, though he agreed that there were many important matters to be considered and offered encouragement for postwar days. In other problems affecting the municipalities Mr. Hart expressed a desire to help in any way possible discussing provincial and municipal questions.

The delegates were welcomed by Alderman Percy George in the absence of Mayor Andrew McGavin, en route back from Ottawa. E. H. Bridgman, deputy minister of municipal affairs, represented the minister, Hon. A. Wells Gray, who is ill, and wished the conference every success.

Norman Baker, British Columbia superannuation commissioner, discussed matters relating to his department as they affected municipalities.

A. Sutter, deputy minister of municipal affairs for Alberta, brought messages from his province.

At the afternoon session, R. M. Brown, regional wood fuel controller, advised the municipal authorities to get a stock pile of wood in readiness for Winter, because he expected that many people would suffer from lack of fuel this coming Winter.

Mr. Brown stated that while many people were laying in a reserve of fuel already, there would be some who would be neglectful or unable to do so and it would be wise for municipalities to get some sort of [a] fuel committee going to lay in a reserve for emergency use.

"Medical services," E. W. Griffiths, assistant deputy provincial secretary for British Columbia, told the conference, "should rightfully be the responsibility of the municipalities." The province, he said, was willing to share the cost, but it was best that officials on the spot establish the right of the individual to free medical care and protect the health standards of their own community.

As the Provincial Government has established a policy of providing medical services and prescriptions to persons in receipt of various forms of social assistance, it may have to make some provision for such services in municipalities which refuse to enter into the scheme, but these municipalities will have to bear the cost, stated Mr. Griffiths. The province pays twenty cents per person for medical care of indigents at present.

R. F. Blandy discussed assessment matters and an open discussion followed.

The conference will resume today when business reports will be read and addresses given by O. H. Ball, regional superintendent of rationing, and H. W. Jamieson, supervisor of education of the Federal Rehabilitation Branch.

The City of Victoria is represented by D. A. Macdonald, city comptroller; P. L. Shaw, city solicitor; E. G. Snowden, city welfare officer; John Baxter, Mayor's secretary, and M. Frank Hunter, city clerk.

More Railway Cars Needed For City Wood

Mills May Have To Burn Up Fuel

Unless more railway freight cars [...] Island sawmills will have to burn surplus stove wood now on hand, the City Council fuel committee was informed yesterday afternoon by Frank W Wilfert, wood production officer, Department of Munitions and Supply.

Alderman T W Hawkins presided at the meeting in the absence of Alderman W Lloyd Morgan who is ill at St Joseph's Hospital. Alderman John A Worthington, another board member was also absent.

Mr Wilfert stated there were large quantities of millwood at Up-Island sawmills, but an insufficient number of railway cars had been dispatched to pick up fuel sorely needed by Greater Victoria householders. He pointed out that 420 cords of wood was lost to the market last week because of the lack of freight cars.

In dealing with other general business the committee decided to locate areas in Goldstream district where thirty-five Provincial Forestry Department workmen could cut stove wood to be stored in the Garbally Road yard for needy cases.

It was also agreed to secure a list of timber areas from the Provincial Forestry Department with a view to organizing wood cutting parties in the near future.

More Recruits Are Wanted by 203rd Battery

The 203rd Reserve Battery, R C A, is nearing completion of a successful recruiting campaign but there is still room for twenty more men and they are wanted within the next two weeks, it was stated yesterday.

Preparations are being completed for encampment of the 39th Brigade at Courtenay, from where the various batteries will carry out manoeuvres with target practice on the artillery range at Oyster River. A detail of officers and men from the battery recently spent two days in the area observing combined operations carried out by the active army.

Asked as to the general response from men approached to join the battery, Capt R L Challoner, officer commanding, reported that the most common excuse given for not enlisting is pressure of work in one's civilian occupation and in other wartime duties. He suggested that such an excuse could be pleaded by most of the personnel of the 203rd Reserve Battery and he pointed out the important consideration often overlooked that the strength of the reserve army, like the strength of the Canadian overseas army, depends entirely on volunteers.

Both the reserve army and the overseas army are vital in the defence of Canada and to Canada's share in the defeat of the Axis and as long as enlistment remains voluntary it is a matter of individual responsibility for every able bodied man not in the active army to decide whether he should go reserve even if it involves a lot more work than one should be expected to take on in normal time.

A special appeal is made by the battery to those who have already been approached through military channels to join the unit. It has not proved possible as yet to interview personally all of those who have been recommended. They are urged to call without further delay at the Battery Office, Bay Street Armoury, or to interview Capt R L Challoner at the Victoria Box & Paper Company, 1202 Wharf Street. Those with any qualifications whatever in the matter of signaling are especially wanted at the present time. The battery offers a fine opportunity for experience in this field.

Men who have for various good reasons been deferred from service in the active army are also reminded of the pronouncement by the Mobilization Board that they are required to enlist in the reserve army. Otherwise they will jeopardize their deferment.

Full particulars about the battery may be obtained at the Battery office, Bay Street Armoury, any day from Monday to Friday, 8 to 12 in the morning, 2 to 5 in the afternoon or Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 8 o'clock, or telephone Beacon 3521.

Additional Wood Expected for City

F W Wilfert, production officer for the wood fuel administrator, announced yesterday that shipment to the city of an additional fifty cords of wood a day from the Honeymoon Bay mill can be expected about June 22.

His statement followed a visit to the mill last week-end arising from City Council complaints that wood was being burned there which could be sent to the city.

The new millwright, C E Helin, now in charge of mill construction there has definitely assured the fuel administration that short wood will be in production at the mill on or before June 22, provided no unexpected difficulties arise," declared Mr Wilfert. "This will produce approximately fifty cords daily."

"Dina Cashman"

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER XLIX

"Well, if I did, it was to spite Aline," Rogers confessed, smiling. "Lord, lord," he said under his breath, "but she is the spoiled baby!"

"The day he came to change the hair in my portrait—the day of the accident—you and she had a talk [illegible]

"Yes, downstairs in the drawing room. He proposes to exhibit only two portraits of her and another in which she is only part of a group, and this one she doesn't like. It's of some well-known musician, a 'cellist, I think—forget his name—and Aline is only a minor figure. I think that's part of the trouble."

"You say you think she's spoiled?" Dina smiled.

"Aline? Spoiled from her birth! Her mother and father spoiled her, Pollack let her do anything she pleased and Rosenstirn spent money on her as if she were a princess—jade necklace and fur coat!"

"I have never," Rogers went on thoughtfully, "I have never seen Aline as charming as she was on Wednesday. She was down on the terrace in that blue outfit—"

"Beautiful clothes!" Dina put in as he paused. "That hat!" She went into a reminiscent ecstasy.

"But it wasn't only that she looked lovely," Rogers went on. "She was in such a sweet, gentle sort of mood. And she told me—well, things about herself that I never understood before. She's always been trying to help people, ever since she was a little girl and—as she said herself, laughing—she's always made a mess of it. She married Pollack because he said he would kill himself if she didn't. 'Oh, I know,' she said, 'he mightn't have. But I loved his mother and she'd been good to me, and I thought there was nothing else to do.'"

"They had children, didn't they?"

"Two. They're with his mother now."

"And is she still devoted to his mother?"

"The mother took his side in the divorce. No, I don't suppose she is. She was awfully funny telling me how she'd tried to be an influence for good and how she'd come out! You know wherever she goes, men make it terribly hard for Aline," Rogers said simply.

"You mean they admire her so?"

"All of them. All the man answered. "In Europe on trains in theatres and hotels men are noticing Aline trying to get to know her. For instance she says that at cocktail parties and dinners in New York the men would gather around her and Pollack would naturally be furious."

"And Dr. Rosenstirn, was he jealous too?"

"Worse!"

"A woman as beautiful as that doesn't have so much fun," Dina conceded after thought. "She can only marry one man at a time, that is. And getting out of a marriage arranging for a divorce must be such a fuss!"

"She suffered horribly in this last divorce. She says that's what made her ready to jump into marriage so quickly with Andy. She was dizzy with freedom, down there at Palm Springs, having a glorious time, and she lost her head."

"Then she thinks marrying Andy was losing her head."

"Think of what she gave up when she married him! Rosenstirn was paying her fifteen hundred a month!"

"Whew! She did lose her head," Dina exclaimed, impressed.

"That stopped at once, of course. I don't know exactly what she thought they would live on," Rogers added, "but it was characteristic of her that she didn't stop to worry about that! It seems that her father [illegible] and when she was a girl in the dress she wore at the drawing room, and she had an idea that artists got ten and twelve thousand apiece for portraits. Some of 'em do, of course."

"Then her people had lots of money, too, Rogers?"

"Her father was one of the richest men in the country until the crash came. Then he put it all into some oil scheme and lost most of it."

"So that she and Andy really haven't much now?"

"Nothing. She says he hasn't the slightest idea what becomes of his money. For one of these portraits he was paid in advance and that's gone, and one of the others hasn't paid yet and doesn't seem inclined to pay."

"Shaky," was Dina's thoughtful comment.

"Shaky! And she is beginning to feel that she wasn't fair to Andy in marrying him in the first place. She's extravagant, she knows it. The other night she tells me she called up a friend in Newport and talked for fifteen minutes. 'I ought to be shot. I never thought what it would cost,' she said."

"So that that marriage may not be a success either?"

"It's a success as far as their liking each other goes. She says she'll always respect him as one of the finest men she's ever known. But—no," Rogers admitted slowly, "I don't believe it will go for very much longer. Their backgrounds are too different. Aline doesn't belong in a country studio with just one old Chinese doing everything and a bathroom that Andy's friend built in himself of old boards and second-hand plumbing. Things done in that slapdash Bohemian fashion don't fit her somehow."

"But if she divorces him, Rogers, then she'll have to marry again."

"Yes, I suppose she will. No trouble there!" Rogers said with a short laugh. "She was telling me that when she's in New York she always has dinner or lunch with Frank—Frank Pollack, I mean. He'd be only too glad to have her come back to him."

"You'd think she might because of the children."

"The children have been her first consideration all through," the man observed. "I could have had them two months a year," she told me, "but I wouldn't upset them by dragging them to and fro over the country. Far better to leave them quietly with their grandmother and their schools. They have their first right!"

Dina was not so deeply edified by this instance of maternal devotion as she ought have appeared. She regarded Rogers steadily, making no comment.

She knew that Aline had seen fit to be gracious to him of late, affectionate, confiding, appealing. Rogers was basking at last in the favor for which he had hungered for years. Dina could tell, not from what he reported to her but by his changed manner, that he felt happy with Aline at last.

FIVE KILLED

DALHART, Tex., June 7.—(AP)—Five men were killed and four others parachuted to safety in the crash of a United States Army plane near here Saturday night.

What Today Means

GEMINI

If June 8 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., from 3 to 5 p.m., and from 8 to 11 p.m. The danger periods are from 9 to 11 a.m., 7 to 8 p.m. and 11 p.m. until midnight.

Before trying to set anyone a pace you expect them to maintain, be sure you are physically able to keep up yourself. Criticisms on this date like boomerangs are likely to come [illegible] fore you speak think twice. A good day to make a marked distinction between your personal needs and desires, particularly any requiring a drain on your pocketbook. Conditions are such that it may many times during the day, be a debatable question as to what will be the right or wrong course to pursue, and a satisfactory solution many only be found through a calm discussion of every phase of the issue involved. Married and engaged couples and those who have fallen victims to the matrimonial bee, may do well to remember that errors of judgment are common and should not be too hastily condemned.

If you are a woman and June 8 is your birthday you seem destined to make many worthwhile contributions to the happiness of not only kith and kin, but also to many with whom you are closely associated. A broad liberalism is apt to characterize your thinking and the true spirit of humanitarianism your words and deeds. Through social welfare, missionary, educational, literary, mu- [illegible] a specialized line of commercial or professional work, you may not only win distinction but also a nest egg sufficiently large to take care of you during any long rainy spell. Your matrimonial hopes are apt to be fully realized, and result in many of your ambitions being satisfied.

The child born on June 8 must be taught, at an early age to distinguish between facts and fancies, and not to indulge in romancing when it deals with the realities of everyday existence. Children born under this sign generally freely accord respect to those deserving of it, but instinctively withhold it from those not entitled to it. An ability to take care of themselves and to get what is rightfully theirs generally characterizes Gemini's youngster.

If you are a man and June 8 is your natal day an indomitable will and a tireless amount of energy are apt to be reflected in all your undertakings. An inordinate amount of ambition will continually stimulate your efforts and cause you to con- [illegible] dition. DEATH RATE LOW

CHICAGO, June 7 (AP)—Maj.-Gen. Norman T. Kirk, surgeon-general of the United States Army, told the American Medical Association House of delegates today that the American wounded death rate in Tunisia was "unbelievably low." The rate was 3 1-2 to 3 1-2 per cent for the Americans' first campaign before they moved north to attack Bizerte. In the first Great War under like conditions deaths would have been 15 to 18 per cent.

Esquimalt Calls Special Council Meeting Thursday

Last night's meeting of the Esquimalt Council resulting in some confusion as to the figures involved in the cost of wartime housing projects in that area, a special meeting of the council will be held Thursday, June 10, at 8 p.m., when the meeting subject. The special meeting is to be attended by various officials, who will endeavor to clarify any points on which any member of the council may be in doubt.

A resolution from a recent conference in Saanich municipality calling for a curtailment of sugar in other directions in order to assure berry growers of a more adequate supply for home canners was read and approved "in principle" by the Esquimalt Council. All agreed as to the need of sugar sufficient to preserve the local crop, but there was some question as to what other group or class should be required to make a sacrifice.

In response to requests from numerous citizens, the council decided to leave the street lights burning an additional half-hour or so for the benefit of persons arriving home on the last car.

A house in the municipality complained of as being a dangerous fire hazard, will be inspected as requested by several citizens, whose petition was submitted to the council.

A sidewalk is to be built on Canteen Road from Esquimalt Road to Yarrows, Ltd., the council to provide the material and the company to furnish the labor.

A report by the committee on military hospitalization, too lengthy to be read last night, was made available to members of the council that they may be better prepared to discuss it at an early date.

A letter from the secretary of the fuel committee of the Vancouver Island Joint Labor Conference was read and the council agreed to take immediate action concerning an adequate supply of fuel for pensioners and indigents.

Two lots were sold, one to P. F. Hill, $100, and one to L. W. Turnbull, $150; one property adjacent to Yarrows was rented at a nominal rate and one citizen was granted the free use of a single lot.

Reeve Alec Lockley was reappointed as the municipality's representative on the board of directors of the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

The Chief Goes Over the Side

Climbing down the ship's ladder to a ramp boat before going ashore to direct the land fighting at Attu is Major-General E. M. Landrum. Moments later he was on his way to the beach at Massacre Bay, where United States forces started the campaign that resulted in such sweeping victories against the Japanese on the island.

Red Cross Notes

MT. TOLMIE UNIT

The Red Shield Concert Party will hold a concert at St. Luke's Hall on Friday, June 18, at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of Mt. Tolmie Red Cross Unit.

CORDOVA BAY UNIT

With music provided by the R.C.A.F. Orchestra, a successful dance under the auspices of the Cordova Bay Red Cross Unit was held in McMorran's Pavilion Saturday night. General arrangements were in the hands of the social convener, Mrs. B. Dyer, and committee. Members of the Girls' Red Cross Auxiliary were in charge of the checkroom. Proceeds from the dance amounted to about $106. Following the intermission a contest with a quilt as a prize netted $19.85.

Californian Is Chief Speaker Of Convention

Dr. Spencer R. Atkinson, internationally-known clinician of Pasadena, Calif., was the principal speaker at a convention of the northern section of the Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontics held in the Empress Hotel yesterday and attended by more than forty members.

He spoke on "The Philosophy of the Universal Mechanics," illustrating his talk with movies, and took part in a round table discussion by four experts later in the day.

Also taking part in the Chicago Round Table, which was a departure from the usual convention procedure, were Dr. Kenneth F. Terwilliger, San Francisco; Dr. Glen H. Terwilliger of Berkeley and Dr. George W. Hahn of Berkeley. Dr. Harry Moore of Seattle acted as moderator of the discussion. This unique and lively discussion led to general talk and was favorably commented upon by all members.

Dr. Atkinson left for California immediately following the afternoon discussion and was accompanied to the docks by a number of members.

Dr. M. R. Chipman, Spokane, Wash., chairman of the meeting, said that discussions included treatment of patients with malformed faces and mouths, and that concerted effort was being made by all orthodontists to give particular attention to boys and girls in junior and senior high schools and so prepare them for the part it may be necessary for them to play in the war effort. In the flying corps especially a high degree of perfection in dentures is required for admission; this holds true for other branches of the service, though in a lesser degree, he said.

Today there will be further talks and clinics, also a business meeting. Dr. J. Camp Dean, Oakland, is president of the society, and Dr. Earl Lussier, San Francisco, secretary.

This year, because of difficulties of transportation, the society is holding four regional meetings instead of the usual large convention.

HOME AT LAST

Oh sing a song of home, my dear,
Of home and nothing more.
No other place so precious is
The whole, great, wide world o'er.

It doesn't matter in the least how plain and simple it is if it be truly home. No one has a more modest home than Danny Meadow Mouse. A great many people would turn up their noses at it. But to Danny and to Nanny Meadow Mouse it is the most beautiful place in all the Great World and they would not change with anyone. No, sir, they wouldn't. Danny says so. Nanny says so. Both mean it.

Just how beautiful and precious it is Danny never fully realized until he thought he never would see it again. You know, he had made up his mind that he never, never would go back there again without Nanny, whom he had lost on the way back there from Farmer Brown's barn. So when Sammy Jay brought him a message from Nanny saying that he never would see her again unless he had sense enough to come home, Danny didn't stop long enough to be polite and thank Sammy. He just started off as fast as his short legs would take him. Sammy understood and simply laughed.

Danny was in such a hurry that he was reckless. Yes, sir, Danny was reckless. He was in such a hurry to get home to see Nanny once more—that he hurried along without any effort to keep out of sight. It was lucky, very lucky for Danny, that none of his enemies happened to be about just then. If they had, I am afraid Danny never would have reached home.

But as it was nothing happened, and at last, out of breath, so tired that he was almost ready to drop, Danny Meadow Mouse reached the place in the Green Meadows where his old home had been, and followed one of his familiar private little paths straight to where he and Nanny had built their house of grass long before they moved to the cornshock in Farmer Brown's cornfield. Danny didn't expect to find anything of that old house left. In fact, he didn't expect to find any house. Just imagine how surprised he was to find a new house already half built.

"Well," said a squeaky little voice, "it's about time you came home! Where have you been, I should like to know?"

At the sound of that voice a great lump crept up into Danny's throat, a lump of joy. "Oh, Nanny!" was all he could say.

Of course, it was Nanny's voice he had heard. A minute later she peeped out from the half-built house. There was a twinkle in her bright eyes, but she took pains that Danny shouldn't see it. She pretended to be indignant.

"Well, sir," said she, "you don't care how I worry, do you? You are quite ready to leave all the work to me. You don't care anything about my feelings. You might think just a little bit of your wife."

Poor Danny! He didn't know what to say. He blinked at Nanny with such a funny look on his face that she had hard work not to laugh. And then, too, she just longed to run out and hug him. At last he found his voice.

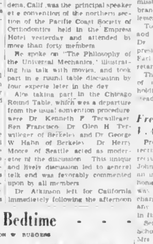
"I—I've been hunting for you all this time, Nanny," said he meekly. "I've worried myself almost sick. I—I—Don't be cross, Nanny."

For answer Nanny ran out and did hug him. "You silly Danny!" she cried. "You thought I couldn't take care of myself. You didn't have sense enough to come home because you thought I couldn't find my way here. As soon as I knew I couldn't find you, I said to myself that the thing to do was to go straight home and Danny will do the same thing. But you didn't. I did the sensible thing and you didn't. Now, Danny Meadow Mouse, perhaps you will give me credit for knowing a little something. See, I've begun our new house! Isn't it good to be back home again?"

"The best thing in all the world, as long as you are here!" declared Danny.

Then Nanny made him curl up in the half-built house to rest, while she brought more grass with which to finish it.

Next Story: The House in the Old Pasture.



"Well, sir," said she, "you don't care how I worry, do you?"

Dictaphone Gives No Encores of Song Programme

OTTAWA, June 7 (CP)—One of the Munitions Department stenographers put the dictaphone earphones on her head and reached for a record for the recordless instrument.

Then she sat bolt upright and shouted.

"This darn thing is talking to itself," she said.

Departmental officials tried the earphones and heard some of the latest song hits.

The experimental division of the Army Signal Corps was called in. They reported:

The motor turning the record-holder wasn't working at proper speed and the governor had gone out of kilter. The mercury switch controlling the speaking device was acting as a rectifier, altering the current and acting roughly like the crystal in a crystal radio set.

The music heard was from radio station CKCH at Hull, Que.

If they tried for 100 years, said the signals men, they couldn't make the dictaphone do it again.

FOUR MAIN SYMPTOMS OF MIGRAINE—ONE-SIDED HEADACHE

I write from time to time about migraine—one-sided headache—because so many can now be helped. Until recently it was customary for the patient to go to bed in a darkened room for the one, two or even more days the attack lasted.

The symptoms of migraine are not like those of other types of headache. The pain in the great majority of cases, is on one side of the head. Other symptoms present are eye disturbances—blind spots, fear of light, blurring of objects—occurring just before attack begins, nausea and sometimes vomiting, alternate attacks of blushing and blanching of the skin, chilly sensations, numbness of hands and feet. The attacks may occur once a day, or may not occur for months. It occurs about four times as often in women as in men. There is often a family history of allergy, migraine or epilepsy.

Dr. T. J. C. Von Storch, in New England Journal of Medicine states that there are four main symptoms of migraine: attacks of headache, eye symptoms, stomach and intestine symptoms, and a family history of migraine or other nervous ailment. In every case there must be headache and one or more of the other three symptoms before it can be definitely called an attack of migraine.

The cause of migraine is unknown, that is, any general cause, but it is known that some cases are due to allergy sensitiveness to various substances, including food, others are caused by gland disturbances and still others are due to inherited nervous tendencies or emotional disturbances.

What about treatment? The first thought of course, should be to try to find the cause—allergy, gland disturbance, nerve disturbance—and treatment given accordingly.

To give relief from an attack, ergotamine tartrate as outlined by Dr. Mary E. O'Sullivan in The Journal of the American Medical Association some years ago, appears to be the most effective. The injections of ergotamine tartrate are more effective than when given by mouth. Dr. Von Storch reported that only thirty-one out of forty-five patients (70 per cent) who took ergotamine tartrate by mouth obtained relief compared with 92 per cent of patients receiving the injections.

Further, it took an average of five hours to obtain relief in those taking the ergotamine tartrate by mouth while the injections gave relief in from one to three hours.

Phosphorus is not only used in war for smoke screens and incendiary missiles, it is also a metal preservative.

Ganges Stall

The stall organized by the Ganges Chapter, I.O.D.E., and held last Saturday afternoon on Ganges wharf under the convenership of the regent, Mrs. Dallas Perry, Mrs. F. H. Newnham and Mrs. Jack Abbott, realized the sum of $28.72 for the war work fund by the sale of plants and home cooking. Royal Bride Chapter

Royal Bride Chapter, I.O.D.E., knitting meeting will be held at the home of Miss Marion Jones, 1906 Duchess Street, Thursday, June 10, at 8 o'clock.

Florence Nightingale Chapter

The Florence Nightingale Chapter, I.O.D.E., met yesterday afternoon at headquarters, Mrs. E. W. Baylis in the chair. Mrs. R. Duncan reported on the successful hospital tea held at the Nurses' Home of the Royal Jubilee Hospital, when the sum of $77 was realized. The regent said the flags of the primary chapters were loaned to the "Remake Revue," and gave a report of the Municipal executive meeting, the intercession service and graduation exercises of the Royal Jubilee Hospital, which functions she had attended. Mrs. St. Clair Kitching, sunroom convener, reported ice cream provided for patients and the chapter decided to supply three dozen pairs of pyjamas, also fruit for patients. Mrs. A. G. Moody, child welfare convener, appealed for jam for the Solarium and stated that fruit had been sent to a needy patient. Mrs. Moulson Smith said the sum of $100.45 had been raised through the efforts of the members. It was decided to hold a silver tea on June 30 at the home of Mrs. J. F. Jones, 1278 Basil Avenue, and plans for a garden party to be held in July were discussed. The war services convener, Mrs. H. Catterall, reported goods to the value of $9.15 donated to the services and stressed the need for turtle-neck sweaters for men in the navy and leather for making jerkins. There is also a demand for books. Two visitors from Whitehorse, Y.T., were present, Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. N. Copland.

Ganges Chapter

The meeting of Ganges Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held recently at Ganges Inn, with the regent, Mrs. Dallas Perry, in the chair. Members stood in silent sympathy with Mrs. Bishop Wilson on the recent loss of her son. The offer from Ganges Red Cross Unit of the use of its room to members for wool carding was gratefully accepted. Mr. H. W. Bullock has promised $10 towards the purchase of another new carding machine. Mrs. Mitchell, convener of the dance committee, stated that arrangements for a dance in July were well under way. The treasurer's report showed the sum of $32.09 in the general fund and $114 in the war fund. A report was heard from the war work convener and a completed jerkin, lined with deerskin, was exhibited. An interesting letter was read from Major Paul Lavard acknowledging with ... urging the members to write as many letters as possible to men serving abroad. The garden seat made by C. E. Baker and donated by Mrs. Baker was won in a contest by Mrs. M. B. Wellwood and the prizes for the contest in charge of the Navy League convener, Mrs. Graham Shove, went to M. Comerford and Miss Irene Webb, both of Victoria. Arrangements were made for the annual garden fete and sale at Harbour House on Thursday, July 1. Mrs. J. N. Rogers was elected tea convener, Mrs. J. Mitchell to supervise games and sports, a superfluity stall to be in charge of Mrs. Wolfe-Merton, and home produce in charge of Mrs. V. C. Best, Mrs. Jack Abbott and Miss Helen Dean. The following resolution regarding sugar was proposed by Mrs. Best and seconded by Miss Beddis:

"Whereas Canadian housewives in rural districts depend for a large part of their families supply for the year on home-grown and home-preserved fruits, including many fruits not usually processed by commercial enterprise; and

Whereas the inadequacy of the present ration of ten pounds of preserving sugar per capita ... most regrettable ... wastage of valuable food ...

Be it resolved that we petition the Wartime Prices and Trade Board ... to ... sonable and normal amount."

Two new members, M... and Mrs. J. H. Car... chapter and Mrs. F. W... a former member and M... Simone Chantreau ... were welcomed at the meeting. Tea hostesses were Mrs. G. H. Holmes, Mrs. Wolfe-Merton and Mrs. Alan Cartwright.
